Syrian President in Blast At Eisenhower Statement

By UNITED PRESS

President Shukri El Kuwatly of Syria said today President Eisenhower's statement on Syria was "regrettable" and that the West, particularly the United States, "should leave us alone."

Kuwatly made the statement in an interview in the independent Cairo newspaper Al Ahram as he prepared to join Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in talks today in Alexandria, Egypt, on Syria's future.

Kuwatly joined acting Syrian Defense Minister Khalid El Azm in denying that Syria was Communist - dominated and renewed charges of an "American plot" to overthrow the Syrian government.

Kuwatly's statement blasting Eisenhower's contention that the Soviet Union's ultimate aim was to control Syria highlighted a series of Middle East developments including:

Urgent Meeting

—An urgent conference in London on the Middle East situation between Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and U.S. Minister Walworth Barbour, highest American diplomat in London during the absence of Ambassador John Hay Whitney.

—Reports in Cairo that Saudi Arabian Ambassador Sheikh Ibrahim Suleiman Ibn Okeil might join Nasser and Kuwatly for talks on the Syrian crisis.

—A meeting in Istanbul today of King Hussein of Jordan with King Feisal of Iraq and Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes. Hussein flew to Istanbul Thursday for the conference on Syria.

—A charge today by Moscow radio that the United States used "Machiavellian methods" in Syria in an effort to overthrow the government and that Syria's only fault was rejecting the Eisenhower Doctrine.

—A new flareup in border fighting between Israel and Jordan. A Jordan military spokesman said three Israelis were killed in a day-long skirmish Thursday when an Israeli patrol penetrated Jordanian territory.

—Reports in the London Daily Express from Damascus that "Russian volunteers are now coming into Syria by sea and air in the thousands" and disappearing into military training camps and secret jet air bases.

Bell Wants to Revise Rates in Donora Exchange

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Bell Telephone Co. has requested permission to revise rates when it converts its Donora exchange in Washington County to dial service Oct. 20.

The Public Utility Commission said Bell planned to eliminate four-party service which does not work with new automatic message equipment to be installed with the dial telephones. All of the present 1,087 four-party residence subscribers and 70 multi - party users have agreed to take two-party service at a total cost of $9,000 more annually.

Bell also proposed to broaden the Donora base rate area to include Eldora, Grand View, Highland Terrace, Rabe and Ridgeview Terrace developments. The move would eliminate or reduce mileage charges of 332 subscribers by $3,270 annually.

Trolley Strike Voting Today In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Union leaders ask the city's trolley and bus operators today for authority to call a city - wide transit strike.

A current contract between Pittsburgh Railways Company and Division 85 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes expires at midnight Aug. 31.

Negotiations on a new wage agreement for the company's 2,200 trolley and bus operators have been deadlocked.

The employes were to vote at day and night meetings on a wage offer which union leaders have described as "ridiculous." The age offer was understood to be contingent on the company obtaining a fare increase.

The operators' average hourly pay is $2.14. They seek an increase of 36 cents an hour spread over two years.

Boy's Body Is Found in Old Mine Shaft

TIMMONS, Ont. (UP)—Rescue teams digging through loose rock in an abandoned mine shaft for a buried 15-year-old boy reached him today and reported he was dead.

The body of Ronald Blakemore was recovered shortly after 10 a.m. e.d.t.

About 100 veteran miners, working in shifts under the glare of floodlights, had battled through the night in a futile attempt to save the boy, who fell into the 1,400-foot cone-shaped shaft Thursday night.

Another boy, 16-year-old Bonar Scholes, also fell down the shaft but was rescued about five hours later 20 feet below the shaft's cone-shaped opening.

Blakemore and four companions were playing on a wooden covering over the shaft about 9 p.m. when it collapsed under their weight. Blakemore and Scholes fell into the shaft but the others scrambled to safety.

Scholes fell onto a ledge and was brought up in a basket after a doctor lowered into the pit administered a sedative. Scholes was suffering from shock.

Soviet Resumes Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia resumed testing of big nuclear weapons at its Siberian proving ground Thursday just as Moscow radio was rejecting a compromise Western offer to suspend the tests for two years.

A brief bulletin this morning from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission hinted that Russia is testing H-bombs or megaton-size weapons. It said the explosion was "of substantial size."

A Moscow radio broadcast Thursday night rejects the new Western offer to suspend the tests for two years, as Russia has insisted. Moscow's official voice repeated Russia's demand that the suspension of tests not be linked to over-all disarmament terms.

Says Hoxsey Cancer Treatment Changed

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A pre-trial hearing disclosed today that patients of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic, Inc. at Portage, Pa., no longer receive the original treatment which the government has condemned as worthless.

Former State Sen. John J. Haluska of Cambria County, one of the operators of the controversial clinic, testified Thursday a temporary injunction against the clinic has hampered its operations. He told federal Judge Wallace S. Gourley that since the injunction was issued last fall the clinic has not given the entire Hoxsey treatment but has used "supplemented juices."

Assistant U.S. Atty. Thomas J. Shannon contended that the clinic had discontinued use of its red, yellow and green pills and substituted such simple medications as brewers' yeast, ascorbic acid (vitamin C), antacid, laxative tablets and pain pills.

The federal government will bring the clinic to trial Sept. 23 in an effort to make permanent the current temporary order against taking out-of-state patients. It will be the second trial involving the clinic.

Last fall a jury returned a verdict supporting the government in its seizure of alleged cancer cure pills which Food and Drug Administration experts contended were a fraud and worthless in treating cancer.

Police Puzzled by Discovery of Body In Trunk of Auto

PITTSBURGH (UP) — An autopsy failed today to determine the cause of death of a West Virginia gambler whose decomposed body was found crammed in an automobile trunk.

Police had believed that Nick Miller of Wheeling, who had a long criminal record, was the victim of a gangland slaying. But a coroner's pathologist said after the autopsy that the cause of death was unknown. Pathologist Theodore R. Helmbold said the body bore no carbon monoxide traces, fractures or wounds.

Miller's body was found Thursday in the trunk of his flashy hardtop convertible, which had been parked on a quiet street in suburban Wilkinsburg for six days. A mail carrier called police when he detected a strong odor emanating from the trunk. The body had been jammed in the trunk head first.

Body Identified

Identification was made by Milan Vosvick, a brother of the victim.

Wheeling police said Miller had a record of 37 arrests, 32 of them on gambling charges. They said he had last been seen in Wheeling last Saturday. Miller's wife and three young children were located Thursday at a vacation lodge in Oglebay Park in Wheeling.

Authorities here said Miller was a friend of William (Big Bill) Lias, former Pittsburgh-Wheeling rackets czar and one-time owner of Wheeling Downs race track.

Miller once served a term in the Ohio State Penitentiary, authorities said.

The 45-year-old victim was co-owner of the Pirate Cafe, a tavern and reputed gambling spot in South Wheeling. His real name was Vosvick but he was known as Miller.

At first police believed he might have been shot in the head and his body then stuffed in the trunk of his flashy hardtop. The car was tagged by police on Wednesday for overtime parking.

'Short Vacation'

Wheeling Police Lt. William Finnegan said he had learned that a used car salesman, identified only as Jack Russell, and a young red-haired woman had come to Wheeling Thursday of last week to see Miller.

No arrest order was put out immediately for Russell or the woman, Finnegan said.

Miller's brother said he had last talked to the victim Saturday night.

"He told me he was going on a short vacation but did not say where," Milan said.

Milan identified the body through a tattoo mark, a gold tooth and finger cuts.

A sister, Mrs Patrick Arbutina, described Miller as "Lias' right-hand man" and said he had been "with Lias for many years."

Deputy Corner Joseph Debbs said Milan told him he ran the Pirate tavern while Nick main-

$545 Average Taken in Taxes

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government — federal, state and local — took a record $545 in taxes from every man, woman and child in the nation during the last fiscal year.

All three government levels also set a record in spending a total of $600 a head.

They more than made up the difference by taking in from general revenue other than taxes another $79 a head. That brought the total per capita take from general revenue to $624.

The Census Bureau said Thursday night in releasing the report that the per capita breakdown on taxes was: Federal $388; state $80; local $77.

Bridge Traffic Signal Light In Operation

A much-needed traffic signal light has been placed in operation in North Charleroi at the Charleroi-Monessen bridge intersection.

Borough Councilman Frank Paterra said the new signal, which was placed in operation at 9:20 Wednesday night, will allow traffic off the bridge to move onto Lincoln Ave. with greater safety. The light replaces a thru-stop sign.

Paterra said the light is adjusted to permit a one-to-three sequence, with Route 88 given preference because of its heavier traffic. The light adjustment allows about "seven to eight cars through on a green light at the peak hours on Route 88, and about five cars through on green from the bridge."

The new light is expected to alleviate the daily traffic jams on the bridge that have been occurring after the change of shifts at the Monessen plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Paterra, Borough President John McKay and James Pascarella, chairman of a traffic committee from Pittsburgh Steel Local 1229, United Steelworkers (CIO-AFL), Monessen, triggered the action that finally led to the installation of the light.

Musial Out for Next Two Weeks

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—X-rays disclosed today that Stan Musial suffered a chipped fracture of the shoulder blade and may be out for two weeks, snapping his National League record of consecutive games played.

C. A. (Bob) Bowman, Cardinal trainer, said the chip resembled a piece of ball about a quarter of an inch long. He said Musial couldn't raise his arm because of the injury.

The X-ray examination was ordered after Musial apparently pulled a muscle swinging at a high pitch in Thursday night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

He said he stopped to render assistance but the boy fled.

Kennedy Fitzgerald Hoffa

WIRETAP DISPUTES HOFFA—Robert Kennedy, chief counsel for the Senate rackets committee huddles with James Hoffa, Teamsters vice president, on his list of stocks. George Fitzgerald, Hoffa's attorney, listens in. Hoffa later was challenged with wiretap evidence when he denied that he tried to shove mobster Johnny Dio into the union over the veto of president Dave Beck.

Hoffa Can't Recall Talking with Dio

WASHINGTON (UP) — Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa told the Senate Labor Committee today he does not recall talking with racketeer Johnny Dio about setting up seven phony Teamster locals in New York.

The committee Thursday accused Hoffa of evasiveness and lack of frankness.

On the witness chair for the fourth day, Hoffa this morning repeated Thursday's refrain: "I don't recall" or "I can't recollect."

This came when Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy asked about details of his deals with his New York mobster friend Dio.

Hoffa, Midwest czar and probable next president of the nation's biggest union, testified that Dio called him for help after Dio was convicted July 25 in a labor rackets case.

"He called me up to say he had been convicted, and if he needed help would I help him?" Hoffa testified. "I said I would."

As the committee finally came to the nub of its investigation, counsel Robert F. Kennedy asked whether Hoffa talked with Dio about chartering seven memberless Teamster locals in New York. The committee charges that these phantom locals were staffed by henchmen of Dio and Hoodlum Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo in November, 1955, to rig an election and give Hoffa control of the union in New York.

"I discussed it with John McNamara (head of a New York Teamsters local). I don't recall discussing it with Johnny Dio," Hoffa said.

Kennedy said he hopes the com-

Army Officer's Trial Goes into Its Second Day

FORT SILL, Okla. (UP)—The court martial of Lt. Col. Walter P. Berger of Philadelphia goes into its second and possibly last day today.

Berger is charged with four counts of negligent homicide and one count of dereliction of duty in connection with a mortar round which fell short and killed four men during a training exercise here.

Lt. Billy Walker, a communications officer, testified Thursday two check points received assurances the mortar fire had been lifted beyond troops.

"I then received a command from Col. Berger to resume fire," he said.

Maj. Robert O. Phillips testified all key personnel attended a briefing before the exercise and copies of safety regulations were available. When the defense asked him who was responsible for artillery, he said "Col. Berger."

Another officer, 2nd Lt. Rosser L. Moody Jr., was found innocent of the charges last week.

Berger faces a maximum penalty upon conviction of discharge, four years at hard labor and forfeiture of all pay allowances. He is a decorated veteran of 16 years in the Army.

Trapped in Tunnel by Motor Fire

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Firemen battling flames, smoke and gas fumes rescued 15 workmen today from a 9,000-foot long sewer project tunnel where they were trapped deep underground for nearly three hours.

The motor of an electric locomotive used to haul mud and rock from the shaft caught fire at about 8:30 a.m., cutting off the tunnel work crew just beyond the 3,000-foot mark.

City firemen, police, and construction crews built up a massive rescue operation within minutes after the fire flared. They brought in emergency fans, smoke ejector and suction equipment, as rescue crews pushed through the darkened tunnel with fire equipment and compressed air hoses.

The trapped men, who had huddled safely beyond the fire flaring in the 35-foot diameter tunnel, appeared in good condition as they raced through the smoke and carbon dioxide fumes.

Help Rescue Workers

Eleven came out in the first group while the remaining four waited for the still operating ventilation equipment to clear the air.

Police reported the rescue operation complete by 11:30 a.m.

The trapped men assisted rescue workers in extinguishing the flames. Firemen dropped fire extinguishers and hoses down an 18-inch air vent which reached the surface beyond the fire point. The men took the equipment and pitched in as firemen, wearing gas masks, pushed up from the other side in the winding tunnel, which runs 50 to 75 feet below the surface.

Firemen wearing gas masks pushed their way deep into the darkened shaft, dragging a compressed air hose to provide additional oxygen. One rescue worker, James Kuchpler, was overcome by gas fumes and was hauled to safety.

Electric motors kept the tunnel ventilation fans in operation, but the U.S. Bureau of Mines rushed additional fans and smoke ejector equipment to the scene, near the Allegheny River in the Highland Park section of the city.

Sewage Project

Furnace cleaning firms throughout the city also were asked to send vacuum suction equipment when the massive rescue operation built up.

Ambulances and doctors waited at the entrance of the tunnel. The shaft slopes downward toward the river at an angle of about 30 degrees.

The tunnel is part of a multi-million dollar sewerage disposal project under construction for the past year by the Allegheny County sanitary authority. The project involves construction of miles of huge tunnels, some of them running hundreds of feet beneath the surface and under the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

County GOP Names New Publicity Director

Appointment of W. Lowrie Kay of Latrobe as publicity director for the Republican campaign in Westmoreland County was announced today by Edwin A. Swink, Republican county chairman.

The announcement followed a luncheon at Mountain View hotel attended by all candidates for county offices in which there is Democratic opposition, Swink, other committee officials and Kay.

Kay, who resigned in June as editor of The Latrobe Bulletin, is in the public relations and advertising business. He is a veteran newspaperman, having served many years on papers in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New York and Maryland.

The new publicity director promised a vigorous campaign for the election of the entire Republican ticket. He expressed optimism, declaring that in the case of the three judgeships at stake and the district attorney's office there is but one man to defeat, Arthur "Buddy" Turner, chief of county detectives.

He conceded that four Democrats' names will be on the ballot in November for these posts, but said that the real candidate in each instance is Turner, whose label they all wear.

"Even Democrats are becoming sickened by the Turner bossism," Kay said. "One-man control of the courthouse must go, and November will be the time. We are confident that thousands of Democrats will vote for the Republican nominees, each of whom is his own man only."

Those attending the luncheon included Avra N. Pershing Jr., Robert H. Rial and Willis E. Topper, candidates for common pleas court judge; Wayne Donahue, nominee for district attorney; William F. Cox, candidate for prothonotary; Joseph R. Hunter, candidate for coroner, and Robert L. Kunkle, nominee for clerk of court. Also present were Marcus W. Saxman, 3rd and Daniel Snyder, county committee treasurer.

Man Routed in Belle Vernon Fire

Frank Coccari was routed from his home at 1110 Brown St. in Belle Vernon yesterday afternoon when an oil stove caught fire and partially destroyed his two-story dwelling.

Firemen poured over 50 gallons of water from high-pressure pumps on the blaze to bring it under control.

The fire destroyed the kitchen, an adjoining room and part of the attic where paper and boxes were stored.

Coccari lived alone in the house and fled to the street when fire broke out.

Civil Rights Still Deadlocked

House in Bargaining Meetings

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democrats and Republicans remained deadlocked today over the civil rights bill.

But behind the scenes, House Democratic leaders were discussing bargaining for a possible half-way measure between their compromise on the jury trial amendment and the one offered by Republicans.

House Democrats want to allow jury trials in all criminal contempt cases involving rights. The Senate version of the bill would make the jury trial provision apply to all criminal contempt cases generally.

Under the House GOP plan federal judges would be given discretion to grant a jury trial in voting rights cases. The judges would be allowed to impose a top penalty of a $300 fine, 90 days in jail, or both, without a jury.

Southern Democrats have denounced the GOP compromise as a "bargain basement" proposal and a "legal monstrosity." Some key senators said it would never be accepted by the Senate.

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), House Democratic floor leader on civil rights, also opposed the GOP plan, but kept the door open for a possible compromise.

Other congressional news:

Weather: Rep. John E. Fogarty (D-R.I.) said he has his fingers crossed that storms will strike just on week days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Those are the only hours the Weather Bureau's storm warning service will be operating, Fogarty said, because a House-Senate conference committee has trimmed its budget to a "totally inadequate" $100,000 this year. He told the House that the weather bureau needed $372,000 just to maintain its present warning system.

Budget: Sen Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said he would introduce legislation to make the federal budget year conform to the calendar year. He also wants Congress to hold an annual session from November to December to act on the federal spending program. Magnuson's proposal would require the President to submit his budget to Congress by July 15 for the fiscal year starting Jan. 1. Under the present system Congress gets the budget Jan. 20 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Power: Six Northwest senators took another crack at the Federal Power Commission. They proposed a sweeping revision of the Federal Power Act to give a commission licensing of "inferior" congressional veto power over private dam projects. The six lawmakers are all advocates of a "high" federal Hells Canyon dam which was rejected by the House Interior Committee.

tained the gambling operation at the rear of the establishment.

Miller was paroled Aug. 15, 1944, from Ohio's London Prison Farm. He had been transferred to the prison farm from the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus and served four years for receiving stolen property.

He also served time in Ohio Penitentiary on an assault to rob charge and in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville.

Miller was involved in a shooting more than 10 years ago. A man named Patty Bonovich walked into a cafe where Miller sat with three other men, fired several shots and then ran out into an alley. Miller was wounded. Bonovich's bullet-riddled body later was found in the alley but his death never was solved.

Hoffa

mittee can finish up with Hoffa—and its current New York hearings—before nightfall. But Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) has announced that Hoffa probably will be called for more testimony later.

Other committee sources have stated that Hoffa is to be recalled probably before he makes his bid to succeed Teamster President Dave Beck at the union's convention in late September.

In Thursday's session, McClellan said he had a report that former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis received $2,500 for sitting two hours in the courtroom during Hoffa's bribery-conspiracy trial, presumably to influence the predominantly Negro jury.

But Louis, later contacted in Chicago denied it. He said "I never got no $2,500. I never got 25 cents."

Hotel Bill Queries

The question came up when Hoffa was asked about union-paid hotel bills for persons who came to Washington for his trial. He was acquitted.

The committee hammered hard at Hoffa most of Thursday on one charge: That he bucked other high Teamster officials and tried to bring Dio into the union early in 1953.

Hoffa steadily denied it, despite half a dozen wire-taps which showed increasingly close cooperation between him and Dio in that period.

The dapper little Teamster boss insisted that he was merely trying to settle a jurisdictional fight over who would organize New York's 30,000 taxi drivers. He said some Teamster officials wanted to start their own organizing drive, but he wanted to bring in Dio's Local 102 of the AFL United Auto Workers, which had begun organizing the hackers, and grant it a Teamster charter.

Curtice, Reuther Cross Swords

DETROIT (UP)—General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice and United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther crossed verbal swords Thursday over inflation and each said it was the other's fault.

Curtice answered the UAW proposal for a cut in auto prices by calling on the UAW to extend its present contract for two more years when the pact expires in May, 1958.

Reuther answered by saying Curtice was shedding "crocodile tears" over high costs in refusing to lower prices while General Motors made heavy profits.

Former McKeesport Detective Is Jailed

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — A former McKeesport, Pa., detective was jailed today in what authorities said may solve a three-year stretch of thefts from parked automobiles here.

Emory Toth, 42, was held in lieu of $5,000 bond on a charge of tampering with an automobile. He was taken into custody Thursday by Wheeling Parks Supt. Homer Fish with the aid of four employes of Oglebay Park.

Fish said he rounded up some helpers when he spotted Toth trying to open a door of a parked car. Toth ran when he saw the five coming toward him but one of the park employes, Ronald Johnson, downed him with a flying tackle.

A spokesman for the McKeesport Police Department disclosed that Toth was fired from the force about a year ago after being implicated in the theft of a car.

Fish said he had been watching Toth for several weeks after receiving reports of him "casing" automobiles in the parks.

"I feel definitely that he is the person who has been breaking into cars during the past two or three years," Fish said. Fish estimated that some $400 to $500 has been reported stolen from automobiles in the parks this year and about the same last year.

Fish said most of the cars broken into were from out-of-state.

Sheriff's deputies said they found a small wire screwdriver in Toth's pocket after his arrest. Two other wire tools were found on the ground near where Toth was arrested.

Teen-age Girl, Men Arrested in Cabin Lootings

WARREN, Pa. (UP)—The looting of about 40 hunting camps in Warren, Crawford, Venango and Forest counties has been solved with the arrest of two men and a 17-year-old girl, authorities said today.

Held on robbery charges and scheduled for arraignment before Squire Fred Verry today were Charles Allen, 38, Grand Valley, and Albert Robinshaw, 23, Southwest Twp., near Titusville.

The teen-aged girl, who was arrested with Allen near Titusville, was turned over to Warren County juvenile authorities.

Warren County Sheriff Larry Linder accused the trio of stealing camping equipment, appliances, furniture, clothing, food, and other goods valued at thousands of dollars. Linder said much of the stolen property was sold throughout Ohio, Maryland, New York, New Hampshire, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

Linder said much of the loot was found at the Grand Valley home of White's mother.

Linder said the break in the case came about three weeks ago when bloody fingerprints found at the scene of a robbery were identified as Allen's. A window was broken during the break-in.

Authorities said Allen was arrested last December and indicted for larceny in the theft of oil lease equipment, but he jumped bail.

Recess Called In Probe of Steel Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of the Senate Monopoly Subcommittee investigating steel price boost said today he hopes Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials can testify within the next three weeks.

Bethlehem representatives were scheduled to testify this week but the subcommittee's investigation was recessed indefinitely Thursday. Kefauver said the recess was called because of a legislative jam in a drive for adjournment.

The hearings may not be resumed until October. Kefauver and another subcommittee member, Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), will attend an interparliamentary union meeting in London Sept. 10-20.

The chairman said tentative plans call for officials of a small steel company testifying after the Bethlehem witnesses. He said representatives of the farm machinery industry probably will be called later.

Coast Guardsmen Are Killed

NEW YORK (UP)—A Coast Guard amphibian plane crashed and burned shortly after takeoff Thursday from Floyd Bennet Field in Brooklyn. Four of six crew members were killed. Two others were injured, one critically.

The plane, a twin-engine Grumman Albatross, had just left the runway when it suddenly dipped, hit the end of the runway and burst into flames.

The Coast Guard identified the dead as Lt. Comdr. Claude S. Labaw of 18 Villa Court, Hempstead, N.Y., the pilot; Lt. Rolland A. Faucher of 3 Elm St., Canton, N.Y., the co-pilot; Machinist's Mate 3-C Matthew R. Ross of 1315 23rd St., Canton, Ohio; and Aviation Electronics Mate 3-C Gerald F. Fox of RD 1, Harmony, Pa.

Witnesses said one of the plane's engines appeared to have stopped as soon as the craft became airborne.

Because of the intense heat, the bodies of the four victims could not be removed for several hours.

One of the injured, John R. Lowell, who lives at the field, was removed in a Coast Guard helicopter to St. Albans Naval Hospital in Queens. He was reported in critical condition. The second injured man, Frederick E. West Jr., 21, of Columbus, Ohio, an aviation electrician's mate, was treated for shock at the field dispensary. He was able to walk away from the crash scene.

The Coast Guard said the cause of the crash was unknown. The plane, normally used for search and rescue work, was on a routine training mission when the crash happened, the Coast Guard reported.

Russell Jones To Cover Red China for UP

NEW YORK (UP)—United Press Correspondent Russell Jones, winner of a 1957 Pulitzer prize for his coverage of the Hungarian revolt, was nominated by the U.P. today to go into Communist China with the first group of American newsmen.

Jones is currently in Warsaw where he has been reporting developments in Poland. He has applied for a visa from the Chinese Communist government and will fly to Peiping as soon as it is granted. The U.S. State Department granted permission Thursday to 24 American news organizations to send in reporters.

Jones, 38, was the only American newsman to stay in Budapest throughout the height of the Hungarian uprising and its suppression by Russian forces. His coverage of that story won him this year's Pulitzer award for international reporting.

Jones joined the U.P. in 1949 in London. Subsequently he worked in Prague, Vienna and Frankfurt. A few days after the Hungarian uprising began, he drove through the countryside to Budapest in a small car bearing the American flag.

24 Newsmen Await Red China Decision

WASHINGTON (UP) —The United States at last has decided to authorize 24 American newsmen to travel to Red China for a six-month experimental basis.

The next question is whether Red China will let the newsmen into their country.

Because the United States has no diplomatic relations with the Communist Chinese government, it has no hint as to what will be Red China's reaction.

The State Department, in a reversal of previous policy, announced Thursday it would immediately authorize 24 American news organizations to send one reporter each to Red China for the six-month trial period. This period is likely to be extended if the newsmen are admitted.

Old China hands in the State Department said they could not predict Peiping's reaction to the State Department's move.

The United States took a year to make up its mind to let the limited number of newsmen travel to the China mainland which fell under Red control in 1949. Therefore, there was some speculation the Red regime might follow the American pattern and take its time in giving an answer.

The Chinese Communists last August offered to lift their seven-year ban on U.S. reporters to admit a selected group for a visit. Three American newsmen accepted the invitation in December over State Department objections. Last week 41 American students accepted a Red Chinese invitation to visit China, despite vigorous American efforts to halt the trip.

Officials said the State Department's flat ban against letting Chinese newsmen enter this country might spell trouble. Others thought the Communists might forget about reciprocity and let the Americans in quickly.

Agencies authorized by the State Department to send a reporter are the United Press, American Broadcasting Co., Associated Press, Baltimore Sun, Chicago Daily News, Chicago Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, Columbia Broadcasting System, Copley News Service, Fairchild Publications, Inc., International News Service, McGraw-Hill World News, Minneapolis Star & Tribune, Mutual Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., Newspaper Enterprise Associates Service, Inc., Newsweek, New York Herald Tribune, The New York Times, Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Scripps-Howard Newspapers, Time, Inc., and U.S. News and World Report.

Jimmy Stewart Fails to Get General's Bars

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Shy, stammering Jimmy Stewart played the real-life role today he's portrayed so many times on the screen—the nice guy who gets a rough deal, but comes through like a champ anyhow.

The lanky actor's friends say Jimmy would have made brigadier general without a hitch if he weren't a famous movie star.

They yelled "foul" when his promotion was hung up by the Senate Armed Services Committee this week.

But not Jimmy.

"I'll continue to do my best," he said, referring to his colonelcy in the Strategic Air Command.

"I was very honored to receive the nomination for this promotion by President Eisenhower and the Air Force," Stewart added, and then he clammed up, just as he has in movies when the script threw him a curve.

The actor's friend and agent, Bernie Wilhams, says Jimmy pulled a two-week tour of active duty with the reserve this year and last—which is all the Air Force requires.

Nuclear Ban Program Talks Are Continuing

LONDON (UP)—The Big Five disarmament conference here reconvenes today, with the United States, Britain, Canada and France hoping against hope that some substantial agreement with Russia can be achieved.

The principal topic for discussion today was certain to be the U.S. proposal for a two-year moratorium on nuclear tests, which was publicly announced after the conference's last session.

The test-suspension proposal was the final detail of a Western "package" plan which will be submitted formally to the Russians in about two weeks. The 10-page statement of Western intentions is now being studied by America's Atlantic Pact allies.

The disarmament conference probably will adjourn next week until sometime in November, giving the Kremlin time to prepare a formal reply.

Science Bests Weather; Explodes Atomic Test

ATOP ANGELS' PEAK, Nev. (UP)—Scientists won their battle against the weather and unexpected mechanical problems today by firing the 13th nuclear device of the 1957 test series from a plastic balloon 1,500 feet above the Nevada proving grounds.

The device, given the code name "Doppler," was set off by a mechanical timer at 5:30 a.m. p.d.t. It unleashed a loud "boom" and power equal to about 10,000 tons of TNT.

Thunderstorms and a leaky balloon had forced the postponement of the shot since Monday. But perfect weather conditions prevailed during the last 24 hours and the Atomic Energy Commission ordered the launching in the predawn hours of its now "leak proof" balloon designed to carry "Doppler."

Eight experiments were recorded on the sequence time. About 30 military planes took part in support missions minutes after the familiar mushroom cloud resulting from the earth-quaking blast zoomed skyward.

An orange glow appeared for nearly 40 seconds following the blast. The mushroom cloud rose to 20,000 feet but its long fingered stem didn't reach the ground.

Some 500 troops witnessed the blast from trenches 3,500 yards from ground zero. The test was closed for observation by the press at Newsnob.

No fires were started from the explosion. The flash was seen in Los Angeles and appeared as "bright white" in Salt Lake City.

The AEC predicted that there would be "little or no" fallout from the shot. The drifting mushroom cloud seemed to partly disappear in a cloud formation.

Distributive Education Students Hear Panel

The advantages of distributive education training and a career in merchandising was outlined yesterday at the Monessen High School to 17 students who have registered for the D. E. course at the school.

The outline was presented by Henry Furio, school principal, and George E. Cieply, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. A panel of local businessmen answered questions, discussed the value of the program and pointed out the opportunities in the retail merchandising field.

Business representatives participating were Carl Ewing, Mrs. Alice Myers, gAl Gaudio and A. E. Wilen, Chamber vice-president.

In this course, seniors will spend half their time in the classroom learning about retail trade. For the other half they will work in local stores for pay as they apply the theory they learn in school.

A maximum of 15 hours weekly is given to classroom instruction and a maximum of 40 hours weekly is allowed for on-the-job training.

Crash Kills Pilots Of Separate Jets

NICEVILLE, Fla. (UP)—An Air Force test pilot, killed in the crash of his F104 Starfighter jet near Eglin Air Force Base, has been identified as Maj. Peter Vanmatre of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Vanmatre, a native of Nashville, Tenn., was killed Thursday when the jet crashed in a wooded area.

Bull Starts Rush

TEPIC, Mexico (UP)—A rush of gold prospectors to the placid El Tigre area was attributed today to a dead bull. A housewife cutting up a beef kidney for stew found a small gold nugget in the organ. She showed it to neighbors and the story spread like wildfire. The bull was traced to El Tigre and the rush started.

Chartered Bus Stolen; Driven Over Hillside

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A chartered Greyhound bus which had brought a group of West Virginians to the Pirates baseball game was stolen Thursday night and driven over a hillside.

It dropped 100 feet into a ravine in Schenley Park, ripping out big trees in its plunge.

Police said there was no trace of the person who stole the vehicle.

The bus had brought a group of 16 employes of the Owen-Illinois Glass Container Co., Fairmont, W. Va., to the ball game. It was left in a parking place in Schenley Park near Forbes Field.

Park police said they saw the bus roaring past their office near the Phipps Conservatory. It was being driven without lights.

Patrolman Herbert Davis said it bounced over a curb, swerved back on the roadway and headed toward the Schenley Oval road, where it went over the hillside.

Lunches, clothing and other personal effects of the West Virginia group were scattered over the area. Nearly all the glass in the bus was shattered but the vehicle landed upright after its sheer fall.

The driver of the bus was D.J. Barnett, of Fairmont.

Levittown Negro Can Sell House At $3,000 Profit

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP) —William Myers Jr., first Negro to purchase a home in this suburban community, disclosed Thursday night the source of an offer of a $3,000 profit to sell his house.

Myers, whose home in the Dogwood section of Levittown has been the scene of mass demonstration, said the offer came from Paul R. Beckert, assistant District Attorney of Bucks County.

Beckert, a candidate for District Attorney in the November election confirmed Myers statement. He said he acted as a private attorney for a person who wanted to buy the house from Myers to prevent "any further violence or demonstrations."

Beckert said his action "had nothing to do with politics or any political group. Nor was it motivated by any personal feelings on my part."

For the Record

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said Thursday the Congressional Record should show what the senators said, not what they would like to have said. Neuberger introduced a resolution, co-sponsored by Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), to forbid the free-wheeling editing now permitted of remarks made by senators in debate. It would permit editing to correct errors and grammar, but not to make substantive changes in what was said.

New Business Outlook To Await Labor Day

NEW YORK (UP)—Wall Street awaits the post-Labor Day period to take another long, careful look at the business picture.

And, having gotten that into focus, the plotting of the stock market's future will be the next step.

Somehow to the financial district, Labor Day marks off summer and autumn for the market. Vacations are over for the most part at that time and industry is getting into its autumn groove.

A trading range bounded by 475, not seen since April 1st, and 490, touched last on Aug. 13, would be logical until after the seasonal post-Labor Day jitters have passed, according to R. E. Buchsbaum, analyst for W. E. Hutton & Co.

If business does not live up to a fairly good seasonal upturn, he continues, then we could see a further decline in late September or early October and a testing of the stronger support area of 450-60 in the Dow-Jones industrials.

The bond market continues to compete with the stock market in a big way, and market menpoint out, since bonds out-yield stocks by a fair sized margin.

Distributors Group Mutual Fund notes this bond competition as one of two forces operating against the market today.

The other one, it lists as the rolling readjustment through which the economy has been going with different companies and whole industries moving quite differently at different times.

John S. Stine of Walston & Co. lists some supporting factors that will keep business at a high level as government spending continues to rise; plant and equipment expenditures will remain high; department store sales at record levels, and personal income at a peak despite shorter hours and elimination of overtime.

Refugee Couple Deported; Lied About Marriage

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Hungarian refugee couple who came to this country posing as man and wife although each already had a spouse in their homeland were ordered deported Thursday by immigration authorities.

Joseph Poelhe, 33, a machinist, and Imrene Kiss, 21, had lived together in a refugee camp and then settled in Wheeling, W. Va., as man and wife until their secret was discovered last month.

The deportation order was issued on grounds they had lied to U.S. officials at Saltsburg, Austria, by claiming to be married.

They admitted at an immigration hearing here Aug. 14 they pretended to be married when they applied for visas to the United States so they could continue their romance and remain together in a new land.

Poelhe and Miss Kiss have five days to appeal the ruling.

Doctors in Race To Save Life Of 14-year-old

BOSTON (UP)—Doctors raced against time today with medical tests on 14-year-old twin sisters to learn whether a delicate kidney transplant operation can save one of the girls from death.

The sisters, Delores and Doris Huskey of Desota, Mo., were flown to Boston Thursday aboard a special Air Force plane, arranged for by Gen. Curtis Lemay.

Doctors said that Delores has acute nephritis, a rare kidney disease which usually proves fatal within a few months. She does not have the function of either organ.

In the transplant, the physicians would remove a healthy kidney from Doris and place it in her twin. The surgery has been performed successfully four times previously but only on identical twins.

The thorough medical tests will determine whether the girls are really identical or only fraternal twins.

State Police to Check Phone at Sharon Restaurant

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission today ordered the Bell Telephone Co. to check whether service should be restored at a Sharon restaurant which police raided last year on bookmaking charges.

The telephone of the Dinner Bell Restaurant, owned by Peter Leftheris, was disconnected by Bell and Leftheris now has applied to the commission for restoration of the service. The PUC directed Bell to ask for a state police check on the "merit" of Leftheris' application.

Testimony at a hearing on the application for service restoration showed that Leftheris was arrested on charges of establishing a gambling place and using telephones at the restaurant to place horse racing bets and conduct baseball pools.

Bell stopped service at the restaurant last August at the request of state police. Leftheris said that lack of a telephone is harming his restaurant business.

"The law is clear that a utility man, and in fact is required, to refuse to render service or supply its facilities to anyone engaged in an unlawful or illegal enterprise," the PUC said. "Our only doubt arises from the continued refusal of Bell to reestablish service in view of the inconvenience and necessity confirmed by a number of witnesses."

Frank Brewster Gets One Year

WASHINGTON (UP)—Frank W. Brewster, West Coast Teamsters chief, drew a one-year jail sentence and a $1,000 fine Thursday for contempt of Congress.

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge John J. Sirica, who had convicted Brewster June 26 on 31 counts of contempt at a juryless trial here.

Brewster had announced in advance that he would appeal the sentence. He was released in $1,000 bail pending disposition of his appeal.

Civil Rights Still Deadlocked

House in Bargaining Meetings

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democrats and Republicans remained deadlocked today over the civil rights bill.

But behind the scenes, House Democratic leaders were discussing bargaining for a possible half-way measure between their compromise on the jury trial amendment and the one offered by Republicans.

House Democrats want to allow jury trials in all criminal contempt cases involving rights. The Senate version of the bill would make the jury trial provision apply to all criminal contempt cases generally.

Under the House GOP plan federal judges would be given discretion to grant a jury trial in voting rights cases. The judges would be allowed to impose a top penalty of a $300 fine, 90 days in jail, or both, without a jury.

Southern Democrats have denounced the GOP compromise as a "bargain basement" proposal and a "legal monstrosity." Some key senators said it would never be accepted by the Senate.

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), House Democratic floor leader on civil rights, also opposed the GOP plan, but kept the door open for a possible compromise.

Other congressional news:

Weather: Rep. John E. Fogarty (D-R.I.) said he has his fingers crossed that storms will strike just on week days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Those are the only hours the Weather Bureau's storm warning service will be operating, Fogarty said, because a House-Senate conference committee has trimmed its budget to a "totally inadequate" $100,000 this year. He told the House that the weather bureau needed $372,000 just to maintain its present warning system.

Budget: Sen Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said he would introduce legislation to make the federal budget year conform to the calendar year. He also wants Congress to hold an annual session from November to December to act on the federal spending program. Magnuson's proposal would require the President to submit his budget to Congress by July 15 for the fiscal year starting Jan. 1. Under the present system Congress gets the budget Jan. 20 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Power: Six Northwest senators took another crack at the Federal Power Commission. They proposed a sweeping revision of the Federal Power Act to give a commission licensing of "inferior" congressional veto power over private dam projects. The six lawmakers are all advocates of a "high" federal Hells Canyon dam which was rejected by the House Interior Committee.

mittee can finish up with Hoffa—and its current New York hearings—before nightfall. But Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) has announced that Hoffa probably will be called for more testimony later.

Other committee sources have stated that Hoffa is to be recalled probably before he makes his bid to succeed Teamster President Dave Beck at the union's convention in late September.

In Thursday's session, McClellan said he had a report that former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis received $2,500 for sitting two hours in the courtroom during Hoffa's bribery-conspiracy trial, presumably to influence the predominantly Negro jury.

But Louis, later contacted in Chicago denied it. He said "I never got no $2,500. I never got 25 cents."

Hotel Bill Queries

The question came up when Hoffa was asked about union-paid hotel bills for persons who came to Washington for his trial. He was acquitted.

The committee hammered hard at Hoffa most of Thursday on one charge: That he bucked other high Teamster officials and tried to bring Dio into the union early in 1953.

Hoffa steadily denied it, despite half a dozen wire-taps which showed increasingly close cooperation between him and Dio in that period.

The dapper little Teamster boss insisted that he was merely trying to settle a jurisdictional fight over who would organize New York's 30,000 taxi drivers. He said some Teamster officials wanted to start their own organizing drive, but he wanted to bring in Dio's Local 102 of the AFL United Auto Workers, which had begun organizing the hackers, and grant it a Teamster charter.

He also served time in Ohio Penitentiary on an assault to rob charge and in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville.

Miller was involved in a shooting more than 10 years ago. A man named Patty Bonovich walked into a cafe where Miller sat with three other men, fired several shots and then ran out into an alley. Miller was wounded. Bonovich's bullet-riddled body later was found in the alley but his death never was solved.

Curtice, Reuther Cross Swords

DETROIT (UP)—General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice and United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther crossed verbal swords Thursday over inflation and each said it was the other's fault.

Curtice answered the UAW proposal for a cut in auto prices by calling on the UAW to extend its present contract for two more years when the pact expires in May, 1958.

Reuther answered by saying Curtice was shedding "crocodile tears" over high costs in refusing to lower prices while General Motors made heavy profits.

Former McKeesport Detective Is Jailed

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — A former McKeesport, Pa., detective was jailed today in what authorities said may solve a three-year stretch of thefts from parked automobiles here.

Emory Toth, 42, was held in lieu of $5,000 bond on a charge of tampering with an automobile. He was taken into custody Thursday by Wheeling Parks Supt. Homer Fish with the aid of four employes of Oglebay Park.

Fish said he rounded up some helpers when he spotted Toth trying to open a door of a parked car. Toth ran when he saw the five coming toward him but one of the park employes, Ronald Johnson, downed him with a flying tackle.

A spokesman for the McKeesport Police Department disclosed that Toth was fired from the force about a year ago after being implicated in the theft of a car.

Fish said he had been watching Toth for several weeks after receiving reports of him "casing" automobiles in the parks.

"I feel definitely that he is the person who has been breaking into cars during the past two or three years," Fish said. Fish estimated that some $400 to $500 has been reported stolen from automobiles in the parks this year and about the same last year.

Fish said most of the cars broken into were from out-of-state.

Sheriff's deputies said they found a small wire screwdriver in Toth's pocket after his arrest. Two other wire tools were found on the ground near where Toth was arrested.

Teen-age Girl, Men Arrested in Cabin Lootings

WARREN, Pa. (UP)—The looting of about 40 hunting camps in Warren, Crawford, Venango and Forest counties has been solved with the arrest of two men and a 17-year-old girl, authorities said today.

Held on robbery charges and scheduled for arraignment before Squire Fred Verry today were Charles Allen, 38, Grand Valley, and Albert Robinshaw, 23, Southwest Twp., near Titusville.

The teen-aged girl, who was arrested with Allen near Titusville, was turned over to Warren County juvenile authorities.

Warren County Sheriff Larry Linder accused the trio of stealing camping equipment, appliances, furniture, clothing, food, and other goods valued at thousands of dollars. Linder said much of the stolen property was sold throughout Ohio, Maryland, New York, New Hampshire, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

Linder said much of the loot was found at the Grand Valley home of White's mother.

Linder said the break in the case came about three weeks ago when bloody fingerprints found at the scene of a robbery were identified as Allen's. A window was broken during the break-in.

Authorities said Allen was arrested last December and indicted for larceny in the theft of oil lease equipment, but he jumped bail.

Recess Called In Probe of Steel Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of the Senate Monopoly Subcommittee investigating steel price boost said today he hopes Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials can testify within the next three weeks.

Bethlehem representatives were scheduled to testify this week but the subcommittee's investigation was recessed indefinitely Thursday. Kefauver said the recess was called because of a legislative jam in a drive for adjournment.

The hearings may not be resumd until October. Kefauver and another subcommittee member, Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), will attend an interparliamentary union meeting in London Sept. 10-20.

The chairman said tentative plans call for officials of a small steel company testifying after the Bethlehem witnesses. He said representatives of the farm machinery industry probably will be called later.

Coast Guardsmen Are Killed

NEW YORK (UP)—A Coast Guard amphibian plane crashed and burned shortly after takeoff Thursday from Floyd Bennet Field in Brooklyn. Four of six crew members were killed. Two others were injured, one critically.

The plane, a twin-engine Grumman Albatross, had just left the runway when it suddenly dipped, hit the end of the runway and burst into flames.

The Coast Guard identified the dead as Lt. Comdr. Claude S. Labaw of 18 Villa Court, Hempstead, N.Y., the pilot; Lt. Rolland A. Faucher of 3 Elm St., Canton, N.Y., the co - pilot; Machinist's Mate 3-C Matthew R. Ross of 1315 23rd St., Canton, Ohio; and Aviation Electronics Mate 3-C Gerald F. Fox of RD 1, Harmony, Pa.

Witnesses said one of the plane's engines appeared to have stopped as soon as the craft became airborne.

Because of the intense heat, the bodies of the four victims could not be removed for several hours.

One of the injured, John R. Lowell, who lives at the field, was removed in a Coast Guard helicopter to St. Albans Naval Hospital in Queens. He was reported in critical condition. The second injured man, Frederick E. West Jr., 24, of Columbus, Ohio, an aviation electrician's mate, was treated for shock at the field dispensary. He was able to walk away from the crash scene.

The Coast Guard said the cause of the crash was unknown. The plane, normally used for search and rescue work, was on a routine training mission when the crash happened, the Coast Guard reported.

Russell Jones To Cover Red China for UP

NEW YORK (UP)—United Press Correspondent Russell Jones, winner of a 1957 Pulitzer prize for his coverage of the Hungarian revolt, was nominated by the U.P. today to go into Communist China with the first group of American newsmen.

Jones is currently in Warsaw where he has been reporting developments in Poland. He has applied for a visa from the Chinese Communist government and will fly to Peiping as soon as it is granted. The U.S. State Department granted permission Thursday to 24 American news organizations to send in reporters.

Jones, 38, was the only American newsman to stay in Budapest throughout the height of the Hungarian uprising and its suppression by Russian forces. His coverage of that story won him this year's Pulitzer award for international reporting.

Jones joined the U.P. in 1949 in London. Subsequently he worked in Prague, Vienna and Frankfurt. A few days after the Hungarian uprising began, he drove through the countryside to Budapest in a small car bearing the American flag.

24 Newsmen Await Red China Decision

WASHINGTON (UP) —The United States at last has decided to authorize 24 American newsmen to travel to Red China for a six-month experimental basis.

The next question is whether Red China will let the newsmen into their country.

Because the United States has no diplomatic relations with the Communist Chinese government, it has no hint as to what will be Red China's reaction.

The State Department, in a reversal of previous policy, announced Thursday it would immediately authorize 24 American news organizations to send one reporter each to Red China for the six-month trial period. This period is likely to be extended if the newsmen are admitted.

Old China hands in the State Department said they could not predict Peiping's reaction to the State Department's move.

The United States took a year to make up its mind to let the limited number of newsmen travel to the China mainland which fell under Red control in 1949. Therefore, there was some speculation the Red regime might follow the American pattern and take its time in giving an answer.

The Chinese Communists last August offered to lift their seven-year ban on U.S. reporters to admit a selected group for a visit. Three American newsmen accepted the invitation in December over State Department objections. Last week 41 American students accepted a Red Chinese invitation to visit China, despite vigorous American efforts to halt the trip.

Officials said the State Department's flat ban against letting Chinese newsmen enter this country might spell trouble. Others thought the Communists might forget about reciprocity and let the Americans in quickly.

Agencies authorized by the State Department to send a reporter are the United Press, American Broadcasting Co., Associated Press, Baltimore Sun, Chicago Daily News, Chicago Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, Columbia Broadcasting System, Copley News Service, Fairchild Publications, Inc., International News Service, McGraw-Hill World News, Minneapolis Star & Tribune, Mutual Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., Newspaper Enterprise Associates Service, Inc., Newsweek, New York Herald Tribune, The New York Times, Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Scripps - Howard Newspapers, Time, Inc., and U.S. News and World Report.

Jimmy Stewart Fails to Get General's Bars

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Shy, stammering Jimmy Stewart played the real-life role today he's portrayed so many times on the screen—the nice guy who gets a rough deal, but comes through like a champ anyhow.

The lanky actor's friends say Jimmy would have made brigadier general without a hitch if he weren't a famous movie star.

They yelled "foul" when his promotion was hung up by the Senate Armed Services Committee this week.

But not Jimmy.

"I'll continue to do my best," he said, referring to his colonelcy in the Strategic Air Command.

"I was very honored to receive the nomination for this promotion by President Eisenhower and the Air Force," Stewart added, and then he clammed up, just as he has in movies when the script threw him a curve.

The actor's friend and agent, Bernie Williams, says Jimmy pulled a two-week tour of active duty with the reserve this year and last—which is all the Air Force requires.

Nuclear Ban Program Talks Are Continuing

LONDON (UP)—The Big Five disarmament conference here reconvenes today, with the United States, Britain, Canada and France hoping against hope that some substantial agreement with Russia can be achieved.

The principal topic for discussion today was certain to be the U.S. proposal for a two-year moratorium on nuclear tests, which was publicly announced after the conference's last session.

The test - suspension proposal was the final detail of a Western "package" plan which will be submitted formally to the Russians in about two weeks. The 10-page statement of Western intentions is now being studied by America's Atlantic Pact allies.

The disarmament conference probably will adjourn next week until sometime in November, giving the Kremlin time to prepare a formal reply.

Distributive Education Students Hear Panel

The advantages of distributive education training and a career in merchandising was qutlined yesterday at the Monessen High School to 17 students who have registered for the D. E. course at the school.

The outline was presented by Henry Furio, school principal, and George E. Cieply, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. A panel of local businessmen answered questions, discussed the value of the program and pointed out the opportunities in the retail merchandising field.

Business representatives participating were Carl Ewing, Mrs. Alice Myers, gAl Gaudio and A. E. Wilen, Chamber vice-president.

In this course, seniors will spend half their time in the classroom learning about retail trade. For the other half they will work in local stores for pay as they apply the theory they learn in school.

A maximum of 15 hours weekly is given to classroom instruction and a maximum of 40 hours weekly is allowed for on-the-job training.

Bull Starts Rush

TEPIC, Mexico (UP)—A rush of gold prospectors to the placid El Tigre area was attributed today to a dead bull. A housewife cutting up a beef kidney for stew found a small gold nugget in the organ. She showed it to neighbors and the story spread like wildfire. The bull was traced to El Tigre and the rush started.

Chartered Bus Stolen; Driven Over Hillside

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A chartered Greyhound bus which had brought a group of West Virginians to the Pirates baseball game was stolen Thursday night and driven over a hillside.

It dropped 100 feet into a ravine in Schenley Park, ripping out big trees in its plunge.

Police said there was no trace of the person who stole the vehicle.

The bus had brought a group of 16 employes of the Owen-Illinois Glass Container Co., Fairmont, W. Va., to the ball game. It was left in a parking place in Schenley Park near Forbes Field.

Park police said they saw the bus roaring past their office near the Phipps Conservatory. It was being driven without lights.

Patrolman Herbert Davis said it bounced over a curb, swerved back on the roadway and headed toward the Schenley Oval road, where it went over the hillside.

Lunches, clothing and other personal effects of the West Virginia group were scattered over the area. Nearly all the glass in the bus was shattered but the vehicle landed upright after its sheer fall.

The driver of the bus was D.J. Barnett, of Fairmont.

Levittown Negro Can Sell House At $3,000 Profit

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP) —William Myers Jr., first Negro to purchase a home in this suburban community, disclosed Thursday night the source of an offer of a $3,000 profit to sell his house.

Myers, whose home in the Dogwood section of Levittown has been the scene of mass demonstration, said the offer came from Paul R. Beckert, assistant District Attorney of Bucks County.

Beckert, a candidate for District Attorney in the November election confirmed Myers statement. He said he acted as a private attorney for a person who wanted to buy the house from Myers to prevent "any further violence or demonstrations."

Beckert said his action "had nothing to do with politics or any political group. Nor was it motivated by any personal feelings on my part."

For the Record

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said Thursday the Congressional Record should show what the senators said, not what they would like to have said. Neuberger introduced a resolution, co-sponsored by Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), to forbid the free-wheeling editing now permitted of remarks made by senators in debate. It would permit editing to correct errors and grammar, but not to make substantive changes in what was said.

New Business Outlook To Await Labor Day

NEW YORK (UP)—Wall Street awaits the post-Labor Day period to take another long, careful look at the business picture.

And, having gotten that into focus, the plotting of the stock market's future will be the next step.

Somehow to the financial district, Labor Day marks off summer and autumn for the market. Vacations are over for the most part at that time and industry is getting into its autumn groove.

A trading range bounded by 475, not seen since April 1st, and 490, touched last on Aug. 13, would be logical until after the seasonal post-Labor Day jitters have passed, according to R. E. Buchsbaum, analyst for W. E. Hutton & Co.

If business does not live up to a fairly good seasonal upturn, he continues, then we could see a further decline in late September or early October and a testing of the stronger support area of 450-60 in the Dow-Jones industrials.

The bond market continues to compete with the stock market in a big way, and market menpoint out, since bonds out-yield stocks by a fair sized margin.

Distributors Group Mutual Fund notes this bond competition as one of two forces operating against the market today.

The other one, it lists as the rolling readjustment through which the economy has been going with different companies and whole industries moving quite differently at different times.

John S. Stine of Walston & Co. lists some supporting factors that will keep business at a high level as government spending continues to rise; plant and equipment expenditures will remain high; department store sales at record levels, and personal income at a peak despite shorter hours and elimination of overtime.

Refugee Couple Deported; Lied About Marriage

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Hungarian refugee couple who came to this country posing as man and wife although each already had a spouse in their homeland were ordered deported Thursday by immigration authorities.

Joseph Poelhe, 33, a machinist, and Imrene Kiss, 21, had lived together in a refugee camp and then settled in Wheeling, W. Va., as man and wife until their secret was discovered last month.

The deportation order was issued on grounds they had lied to U.S. officials at Saltsburg, Austria, by claiming to be married.

They admitted at an immigration hearing here Aug. 14 they pretended to be married when they applied for visas to the United States so they could continue their romance and remain together in a new land.

Poelhe and Miss Kiss have five days to appeal the ruling.

Doctors in Race To Save Life Of 14-year-old

BOSTON (UP)—Doctors raced against time today with medical tests on 14-year-old twin sisters to learn whether a delicate kidney transplant operation can save one of the girls from death.

The sisters, Delores and Doris Huskey of Desota, Mo., were flown to Boston Thursday aboard a special Air Force plane, arranged for by Gen. Curtis Lemay.

Doctors said that Delores has acute nephritis, a rare kidney disease which usually proves fatal within a few months. She does not have the function of either organ.

In the transplant, the physicians would remove a healthy kidney from Doris and place it in her twin. The surgery has been performed successfully four times previously but only on identical twins.

The thorough medical tests will determine whether the girls are really identical or only fraternal twins.

State Police to Check Phone at Sharon Restaurant

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission today ordered the Bell Telephone Co. to check whether service should be restored at a Sharon restaurant which police raided last year on bookmaking charges.

The telephone of the Dinner Bell Restaurant, owned by Peter Leftheris, was disconnected by Bell and Leftheris now has applied to the commission for restoration of the service. The PUC directed Bell to ask for a state police check on the "merit" of Leftheris' application.

Testimony at a hearing on the application for service restoration showed that Leftheris was arrested on charges of establishing a gambling place and using telephones at the restaurant to place horse racing bets and conduct baseball pools.

Bell stopped service at the restaurant last August at the request of state police. Leftheris said that lack of a telephone is harming his restaurant business.

"The law is clear that a utility man, and in fact is required, to refuse to render service or supply its facilities to anyone engaged in an unlawful or illegal enterprise," the PUC said. "Our only doubt arises from the continued refusal of Bell to reestablish service in view of the inconvenience and necessity confirmed by a number of witnesses."

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge John J. Sirica, who had convicted Brewster June 26 on 31 counts of contempt at a juryless trial here.

Brewster had announced in advance that he would appeal the sentence. He was released in $1,000 bail pending disposition of his appeal.

Ike's Disappointed; So Is the Country

PRESIDENT Eisenhower is entirely justified, we believe, in feeling "tremendously disappointed" at the way Congress has treated some of his most important recommendations.

Furthermore, we have an idea that a majority of the American people are similarly disappointed although there is no sure way of determining that short of a national election.

The President is especially miffed over three major items of his program: (1) the school construction bill, which was defeated by a narrow margin in the House; (2) the action of the House in seriously curtailing foreign aid although this may yet be remedied by the Senate to some extent; and (3) the failure of Congress as a whole thus far to produce a good civil rights bill.

Mr. Eisenhower is being criticized, sometimes by people who share his views on these questions, for not fighting hard enough, for not being as tough as he might be, especially with members of his own party in Congress.

Commenting on this criticism at his press conference on Wednesday, the President said that for him to adopt a "give-em-hell" approach in dealing with Congress would be to go against his natural inclinations. And he said he doubts that anybody who follows a course "artificial for himself" can be very effective.

We're inclined to go along with that. And we have a sneaking suspicion that some of the critics who are now calling Mr. Eisenhower "weak" would be the first to cry "Dictator!" if he should start cracking the whip to make Congress do his bidding.

* * *

THE FAILURES, it seems clear to us, do not belong on the doorstep of the White House. They belong on the doorsteps of Congress.

Ours is a government of three co-equal branches. It is the President's job to propose, and President Eisenhower has done that job well, using methods which are characteristic of him.

But it is up to Congress to dispose. And on each of these three issues — school construction, foreign aid and civil rights — the majorities, consisting of both Democrats and Republicans, have violated party pledges and renounced mandates of the electorate.

Other presidents may have done things differently than Mr. Eisenhower has done them — and maybe in some cases a little more effectively.

But that can't justify the failures of Congress. And when the President says he is disappointed, he is speaking undoubtedly for a great many millions of his fellow citizens

Hoffa Is Unfit

THE SENATE committee at this writing still has some questions it wants to put to James Hoffa, Dave Beck's heir-apparent as the head of the Teamsters Union. And the committee evidently has more information about Hoffa's connections with the underworld to be put into its record.

But we suspect that the nation as a whole, and especially the decent elements of the labor movement, have seen and heard enough already to be certain that Hoffa is not a fit person to be at the head of anything, certainly not a rich and powerful labor union.

It seems to have been the general practice in the Teamsters Union for its top leaders to mix the organization's funds with their own in a fashion which is decidedly loose, to use a mild word. Hoffa's ability to borrow money from the union treasury at will and without interest and security of any kind would be novel had we not learned about Beck's capacities along the same line.

It is Hoffa's connections, financial and other, with gangsters, however, that is most revolting. The evidence before the committee suggests that Hoffa has had no scruples whatever about who helped him advance his schemes or how they did it.

It is a repulsive thought that the convention of the Teamsters Union next month may actually elect this man as president.

The McClellan committee, which has just received a continuance together with a new $150,000 appropriation by a unanimous vote of the Senate, has no choice but to continue to expose this kind of corruption wherever it is found.

As Senator McNamara, a Democrat and a former union official himself, put it: "The committee still has some work to do."

Merry-Go-Round—

Is Hoffa A Friend Of Negroes?

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Here is more inside on the recent acquittal of Jimmy Hoffa, No. 2 boss of the Teamsters. One of the gimmicks used during his trial, obviously for the purpose of wooing the eight Negro members of the Hoffa jury was a full-page ad in the Washington edition of The Afro-American, plus an appealing column by Samuel Hoskins. The latter told, among other things, how "Hoffa, long before the Supreme Court dreamed of its May 17, 1954, school decision, was on the desegregation firing line.

Mr. Pearson

"Within the Teamsters' membership are 167,000 colored truck drivers," said The Afro-American columnist. "Many more persons of color had important positions within the Hoffa organization.

"When Hoffa becomes president of the sprawling Teamsters' organization," said The Afro-American, "the opportunities in this direction will increase tenfold.

"But on the other hand, if this champion of labor is crushed by the anti-labor forces which also are anti-civil rights, the cause will suffer immensely.

"Such are the issues in the Hoffa-Fischbach bribery trial."

Another Side

In blunt contrast with The Afro-American, another leading Negro newspaper, The Chicago Defender, has published another side of Hoffa's attitude toward Negroes. Esther L. Payne, energetic news digger for The Chicago Defender, reports:

"While Hoffa was proclaiming his love for Negroes, a lawyer with a long memory reached back to 1944 when a battery of lawyers for President Roosevelt's FEPC secured an appointment with Hoffa to cite the discrimination in the Teamsters Union against Negro truck drivers on cross-country trips.

"When Hoffa entered the room," reported Miss Payne in The Chicago Defender, "he curtly informed the group that there was no need to open their briefcases, as he had only one statement to make and that would be all, with no questions allowed.

"Then he repitedly said his union had no intention of putting Negro truck drivers on long hauls because the new equipment provided a space for sleeping in the cab of relief drivers, and no white would want Negroes in such intimate quarters.

"Secondly," said The Chicago Defender columnist, "drivers used facilities of hotels and motels over the route for sleeping, and they didn't intend to be mixed up with Negroes.

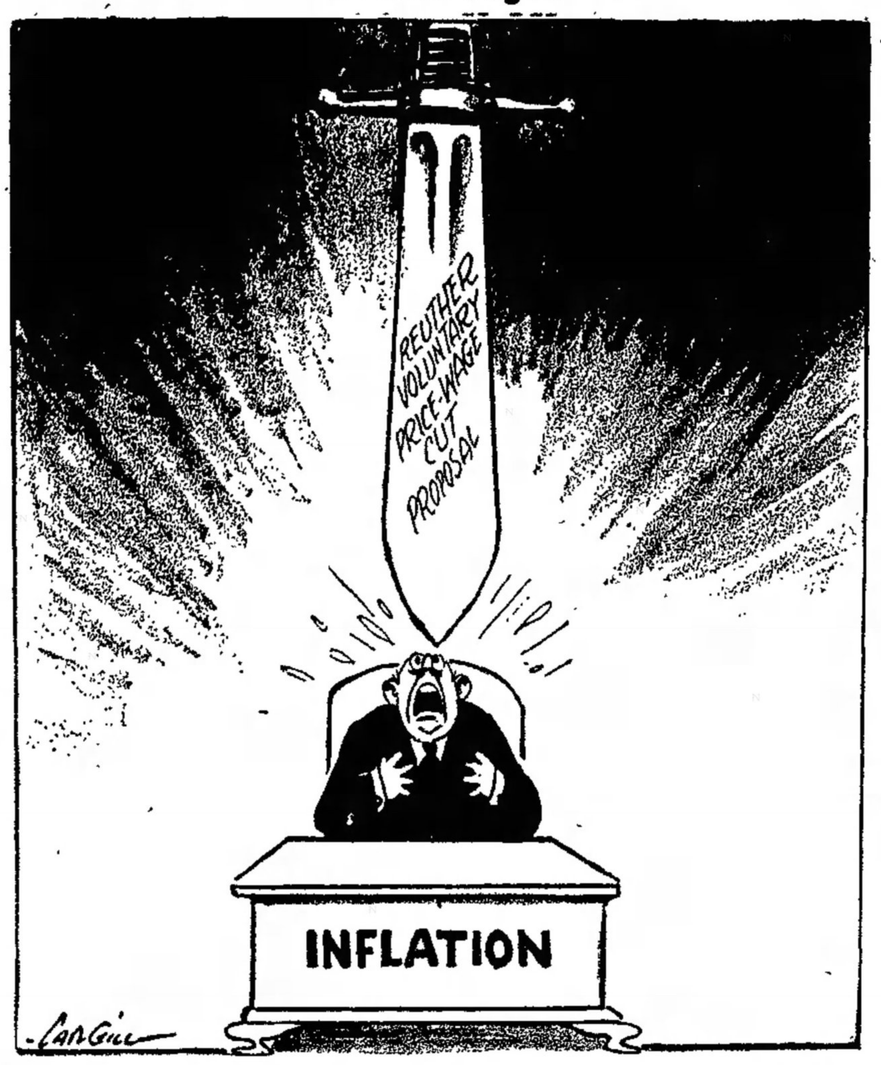
"After he finished his statement Hoffa arose and stomped out of the room."

NOTE — Ex-boxing champ Joe Louis also got his expenses paid to come to Washington and appear in the courtroom in order to show Hoffa as the great friend of the Negro.

Washington Pipeline

Ike's best ammunition for his foreign aid program — if he would read it — is contained in the new book on Adlai Stevenson by Kenneth Davis, "A Prophet in His Own Country." Trouble is, Ike seldom reads . . . It took more than usual resistance for certain Alabama congressmen to oppose the Natural Gas Act, particularly Kenneth Roberts. Bob Jones, and Carl Elliott. All three were classmates of Mortimer Jordan, lobbyist for the Southern Natural Gas Co. . . . Henry Kaiser, the man who used to build steel mills in Southern California, is now building a 13-story hotel at Waikiki Beach in Hawaii. Henry has retired from U. S. industry, is now devoting himself to promoting tourism in Hawaii . . . To get an idea of what the McClellan Rackets Committee is doing to labor, read a city ordinance issued by the town of Osceola, in McClellan's home state, Arkansas. Osceola, population 5,000, has adopted an ordinance that no labor organizer can operate within the city limits without paying a fee of $1,000 a day and being fingerprinted. The ordinance was adopted because of the so-called necessity for "the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety." . . . Vice President Nixon, now the rootin' tootin' advocate of a tough civil rights bill, voted in 1951 as a Senator to kill an amendment to the Selective Service Act which protected Negroes in the armed forces. Nixon in 1951 didn't realize the golden allure of the Negro vote . . . Officers aren't the only ones who complain about compulsory socials and donations in the armed services. At Suffolk Air Force Base, New York, enlisted men receiving their pay found the commanding officer, plus other officers, seated at tables at both exits from the base exchange. No enlisted man got by without buying a dollar's worth of chances on a small outboard motor.

Double-edged



From Washington—

Eisenhower and Congress

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

As this 1957 session of Congress moves off-stage, it is evident:

That the House of Representatives rebuffed President Eisenhower on his mutual security program despite its high White House priority.

That the Senate rejected the advice of the President on the civil rights bill.

Mr. Drummond

That both Houses of Congress and both parties rejected Mr. Eisenhower's wishes and repudiated their own platforms in killing the school-construction bill.

No matter how you add up the record — left to right or top to bottom — the answer comes out the same: President Eisenhower is getting relatively little from the first half of this 85th Congress.

Partly Ike's Fault

There is no doubt, I think, that Mr. Eisenhower contributed to his own difficulties.

After Treasury Secretary Humphrey urged on the congressional budget-cutters, the President's delay in coming to the defense of his own appropriation requests undercut his effectiveness.

Also, his failure to speak out in behalf of the school-construction bill at the critical moment may have cost him some Republican votes.

But it is not proved that any different course of action by Mr. Eisenhower would have altered the end result.

What I mean is this:

He exerted his maximum influence to sway Congress to support his full mutual security program, but the appropriation which now is taking final shape will be far below and, in the judgment of the White House, dangerously below what he sought.

Lost Both Ways

He failed to exert his maximum influence to sway Congress to support federal aid to education—and on this issue he also lost.

Thus the President lost both ways. He lost when he didn't battle Congress and he lost when he did.

Mr. Eisenhower is finding his influence with Congress declining.

Certainly his legislative and budgetary requests fared badly at the hands of this Congress compared with 1955 and 1956.

Why?

Is Congress mis-reading public opinion, or is public support for the President seriously falling away?

It is too soon to say — with finality. The setbacks which the President has suffered from Congress are indicative, not conclusive. They have started a trend. They suggest a pattern of events which may plague Mr. Eisenhower from here to the end of his second term.

But half of one term of Congress is no adequate basis to write finis to the President's political power and prestige. The presidency has many resources. They are not readily exhausted. During the recent period of his greatest difficulties with Congress, Mr. Eisenhower's Gallup Poll rating has been going up.

New Experience

We are, of course, witnessing for the first time the operation of the two-term limitation on presidential tenure. This may be producing a greater erosion of presidential influence than we realize because its effect is never clearly visible.

No other President has ever had to begin his second term with every politician in both parties, from precinct captain to the majority leaders of both houses of Congress, aware that they can neither be assisted much nor hurt by the President ever again running for the presidency.

The fact that a President can no longer leave even a smitch of doubt whether he might seek another term is a political force now stricken from his hands. It cannot fail to weaken in some degree Mr. Eisenhower's influence with the members of Congress of both parties.

This year, unlike the Democratically-controlled Congress of 1955 and 1956, Mr. Eisenhower has had greater opposition from the Democrats. An example is what has been happening on the mutual security program for which the President has been making his strongest fight. This year seven more House Republicans voted for the bill and 28 more Democrats voted against it than a year ago.

The Lighter Side—

Jeweler Specializes in The Weird, Repulsive

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Sam Kramer, a tall, slim man with a bushy black beard, pierced ears, haunted eyes, and an addiction to awning-stripe shirts, is a Greenwich Village jewelry-smith who is wedded to the weird.

He is also one of the best advertising writers in the world.

The thing he advertises is Sam Kramer — and Sam's jewelry, which is made, as his ads say, "with our own bare hands and a few creature-like tools." Sam's words about himself and his work have reached so far that customers drop into his shop from all parts of the country.

His handbills and leaflets have excited my admiration for 18 years now, and I still have the first one he put out, beginning: "Fantastic jewelry — for people who are slightly mad." It describes some of his more morbid, writhing pieces thus: "Tortured and massive, they almost cry out with hysteria."

The text of this original pamphlet also contains the immortal headline: "Buying is actually discouraged."

Germs And Worms

His leaflets are apt to have such bold headlines as "Wo! Eek! Gasp!" or "Warning!!" or "Stop Brooding !" or "Why fight it any longer? Come at once. Or wire, or send an emissary, or beam a strong thought wave."

The text is likely to say: "Germs and worms and amoebas and kidneys, startled eyes with teardrops dropping. . . not exactly jewelry and not exactly anything else. . .but just what your subconscious has always wanted. . .Hurry, friend, it will make you glad! Sam Kramer himself, with eyes flashing, jaws clenched, chest heaving, beard bristling, brow furrowed, and arms akimbo . . . personally dares you. What? You won't come! Oh well, you can't (voices breaking, lips trembling) kill us for trying."

Sam ain't just kidding about those worms and germs. A lot of his rings, brooches, necklaces and other gewgaws are sedately appealing and, as he says, "neither uncouth nor outrageous." But some others look as if they are about to leap at you.

His proudest testimonial, which has been reprinted extensively, came one day from a gray-haired little lady of about 65 whom Sam encountered examining the showcase in front of his shop. "I've traveled extensively, at home and abroad, and I've never seen anything so repulsive," she told him.

S. J. Perelman described Sam's work as "an egg balanced on a cone, an erg balanced on a bone, a hag balanced on a roan." Women's Wear Daily called it "protoplasm and germs arranged artistically."

A windfall for Sam occurred some years ago when, for $150, he bought 16,000 eyes from stuffed animals from "a tipsy taxidermist." These stare from much of his jewelry. He also gets used artificial human eyes from pawn shops and works them in along with pieces of teeth, bones, tusks, and meteorites from outer space.

The Cynic's Corner—

"We ought to have more holidays . . . but then, I suppose we'd become like Mexico or something . . . !"

The Views of Others—

Do School Children Need Costly Palaces?

(From the Readers Digest)
By HOLMAN HARVEY

Not long ago, in a town in New York State, I saw a shining new public school, put up by the community to educate 350 grade-school children. Solidly built of masonry, simple and attractive, this school fulfilled all of the minimum standards laid down by the state's department of education. With 14 cheerful classrooms and all necessary facilities, it cost just under $400,000, or some $28,000 per classroom.

Several days later I visited a second school not far distant. It also had 14 classrooms designed for 350 grade-school children. This school cost well over a million dollars, or around $80,000 per classroom.

One half of the entire space in the first school was devoted to actual teaching space — to classrooms. In school number two, less than 25 percent of the space was in its 14 classrooms.

Roughly, three schools like the first could be built for the price of school number two. In the near future, both communities will need additional new classrooms and will go to their taxpayers for still more money. How long will taxpayers stand for the excessive costs of building million-dollar establishments like school number two?

200,000 Classrooms Needed

While school funds are lavished on facilities befitting an exclusive club, America is in a desperate plight for sheer lack of classrooms. As of this writing, the shortage is estimated at 200,000 classrooms.

School taxes are at the highest level in American history, and in thousands of communities are becoming an almost intolerable burden. To build their lavish schools, towns are being plunged into debt for a generation to come. In many places, school costs take up more of the community's total income than all other services combined.

Last year the American people spent, through their local school boards, and with some assistance from their states, well over two billion dollars to build schoolhouses. Out of this immense taxation they wound up with only 60,000 or so new classrooms. At the same time, most of the schoolteachers of the nation — the very root and branch of the solid schooling our children need — are trying to live on salaries which no self-respecting bank would offer a junior clerk.

"The waste of taxpayers' money in school building is fantastic," says one of America's foremost experts on schoolhouse construction, Dr. James MacConnell, director of the famed School Planning Laboratory at Stanford University. His organization is working with school boards in more than 100 towns and cities to eliminate waste and build schools which the community can afford.

A school board in the Far West recently put up a high school containing a $750,000 gymnasium with bleacher seats from which 3000 spectators might watch the basketball games. In the Middle West a $300,000 auditorium was built into a new high school. At the same time, and in both communities, grade-school-children were limited to half-a-day schooling. Money spent on the splendid gym would have built some 30 new classrooms; that spent on the auditorium, 12 classrooms. America needs classrooms. But as one prominent educator says: "In many a U. S. community it is an open question whether the town builds a high school primarily for education or for the training of the basketball team."

Isn't it high time that school boards, parents and taxpayers wake up to such waste of public funds in building schools? A powerful group of educators, styled "liberal" or "modern," and including many school superintendents and school principals, is determined to build luxury schools, regardless both of the country's tragic classroom shortage and of often insufferable taxes. This group is flourishing on school-tax money in every region of the United States today and is preying on school boards in thousands of communities.

The distinguished authority Dr. Walter D. Cocking, editor of "School Executive" magazine, said recently: "Too much building is being done on the basis of out-of-date know-how, hunches, prejudices and sheer lack of information." Other important authorities say that only one of every ten qualified architects in the country has made any serious study of schoolhouse construction. The rest know next to nothing of the economies possible.

But a small group of economy-minded specialists is pulling down costs while still using the best materials. Not long ago, in the village of Ardsley, in New York's Hudson Valley, a 14-classroom grade school was built on the relatively new principle of "unit construction." It won the highest award of the New York State Society of Architects. About one half of its area — an unusually high percentage — is devoted solely to classroom space. It is solidly built of well-set masonry, with all of its fittings of high-quality materials. The Ardsley school cost $13.70 per square foot, and $25,100 per classroom. Taxpayers in nearby communities, at the same time, are being required to spend $15,000 more per classroom for their schools. These, again, soon will be overcrowded.

Multipurpose Rooms

Many school boards are finding an answer to economy in a "multipurpose room." There are many manageable combinations of the gym, the cafeteria, the study hall, the auditorium, the library, the room for visual-auditory instruction, and other nonclassroom space, which can effect genuine savings. In some schools, serving carts and portable steam tables are rolled into a multi-purpose room, rendering a separate cafeteria entirely unnecessary. Sometimes there are "cafetoriums," or "cafenasiums."

Extravagant educators and architects, and duped school boards, however, go right ahead spending taxpayers' money, not for needed classrooms, but for excessively high ceilings, needlessly wide corridors, elaboraate lobbies and so on.

Available in most localities are prefabricated schools, or schools consisting mostly of prefabricated parts, in many materials — wood, laminated wood, aluminum, steel — and including portable classrooms to meet emergency school enrollments. Any economy-minded school board may make a choice of one of these when hard pressed by urgent classroom shortage.

And since school boards are ultimately responsible to the citizens, you, as a voter, can put a stop to the endlessly harassing increase of your school taxes if you'll act on the knowledge that pupils don't ask for or need the palaces that the architects dream up for them. Remember that our first need is for better-paid teachers — and for 200,000 new classrooms.

Only Two District Squads at Camp

Only about two district high schools are going to football camp this season, Charleroi to Camp Somerset and West Newton to Camp Laurel Park. Practically all of the local area grid teams are, however drilling on fields other than their playing sites. For instance, Monessen trains at the Stadium Annex to preserve the turf at the Stadium, Bellmar trains at Marion Junior High field and Rostraver is getting in its practice licks at LaGrange School in Pricedale . . . The new assistant coaches at Bellmar and Rostraver respectively have really "dug into" their work with a vengeance. At Marion this week Tom Healey was sending the Bellmar backs through their paces and over at LaGrange Larry Cocella was actually doing contact work, demonstrating tackling technique the old fashioned way.

* * *

Former Charleroi and California Teachers College grid star, Stan Milchovich has been named assistant coach at Bentleyville High replacing Jules Bia who resigned for a job in the Greensburg School system. Milchovich will assist head boss Steve Hrutkay at Bentleyville, probably as backfield mentor . . . Jeannette High School has added another coach to the Jayhawk football staff making a grand total now of four assistants for Head Coach A. Markley Barnes. The new aide is William Stutz, who will receive a salary of $250 . . . Charleroi physician Dr. Charles Rosenbloom, who manages Buck Henry, now residing here, has taken another fighter under his wing. He's Jackie Torme, a San Francisco heavy, who has won 10 and lost one in his short pro career. He'll fight at Jeannette on August 29 against Johnny Harper.

* * *

Eddie Kikla Also Top-Notch Golfer

Eddie Kikla, the Monongahela High pitching sensation, and currently pacing the Junior Legion team from that city in the State playoffs is also quite a golfer. He recently won the Caddie Championship at Monongahela Valley Country Club with a score of 88. He'll receive a trophy for his feat. Eddie has caddied at MVCC for a number of years . . . In case you missed it in a news release, another outstanding baseballer, this one of big league fame, Ralph Kiner and his tennis playing wife, Nancy, are the proud parents of a daughter. They also have two sons. The newcomers been named Kathryn Chaffee Kiner. The Kiners now reside in San Diego, where Ralph is business manager of San Diego Padres.

* * *

Frank Wydo, the former German Township High gridder who went on to fame with the Philadelphia Eagles, is returning to action this season after being in retirement for a year. He had played for nine seasons until calling it quits last year . . . Connellsville's much-talked about backfield ace Jim Cunningham has reportedly changed his mind about going to Pitt and will head Penn State way . . . Brownsville's Eddie Roebuck set his ol' home town awhile one day last week when he brought three Dodger buddies to visit old friends in the Fayette County community. The Dodger visitors were Sandy Kofaux, Roger Craig, and Danny McDevitt . . . A slip of the printer's ink made Roy DeRocco's name come out Ray DeRosca in a note on the City Recreation Board here the other day. Sorry, Roy.

Ex-Hound Cager Ready for Work

Alex Novakovich, former Monessen High and Pitt cager, has finished his stint with Uncle Sam and is waiting for a job opportunity . . . Charleroi grid Coach Rab Currie is starting to wear that worried look with Gary Clark, a probable starter, falling from a ladder and suffering injuries which will sideline him for awhile. The mishap occurred just a day before practice opened, and Jimmy Chacko reportedly not out for drills as yet. The loss of such a promising gridder as Chacko would be quite a blow to the Cougars, despite the other top talent on the squad . . . An announcement will be forthcoming soon on the annual Big Six Banquet, even though it won't be held unutil it's usual early December date.

Oriole Outfielder Gives Away 'Gardening' Tips

By BOB NIEMAN
Outfielder, Baltimore Orioles

KANSAS CITY (UP)—The fellow who said all's fair in love and war might just as well have included baseball, too.

This is one game where everybody tries to get away with just as much as he can. Of course, the players and managers won't call it "cheating." In pulling some of these tricks, they say they're just taking advantage of their club's strong points and the opposition's weaknesses. And it's all part of the game.

Here are a few examples.

Not many people know that the third base foul line in Chicago's Comisky Park is sloped upward to help keep Nellie Fox's push-bunts in fair territory. This little gimmick gives Nellie 20 extra hits a year.

Slope Aided Rosen

A couple of years ago Cleveland was notorious for sloping its third base line outward so that the slow hit balls down the line would roll foul.

The reason? Al Rosen, the third baseman, was none too fast and had trouble handling this play.

On the same Cleveland field, the strip of infield between third and short was left unwatered to aid Cleveland's numerous right-handed hitters. When ground balls hit on this "concrete" strip they shot through the hole into left field like a bullet. Conversely, the same strip between first and second base was watered down and the grass was allowed to grow. This stopped the left-handed hitters of the opposition.

Orioles No Puritans

We're not exactly Puritans in Baltimore, either. Visiting teams notice that our infield is thoroughly soaked on the day Bill Wight is pitching. When the opposition pounds Bill's sinker ball into the dirt, it won't go anywhere.

In a recent game with the Red Sox at Baltimore, Sammy White hit a hard grounder that slithered to a stop inside of third base. After he had been thrown out at first Sammy bellowed saracastically: "Why don't you wet down this infield? There's only two inches of water standing on it!"

The oldest method of "cheating" is the tailoring of home ballpark fences to help particular hitters. Yankee Stadium did wonders for Babe Ruth. More recently, Washington moved in its fences and Ivey (10-10) pitching against Joe Said ot looked like Musial would be sidelined for at least several days.

'Injury-bug' Key to Bellmar Hopes

Manzini Banjor
BELLMAR HIGH GRID COACH BAP MANZINI shows his large Bellmar squad proper punting technique at the Marion Junior High Field where the Hurricanes are drilling prior to the opening game with Perryopolis on September 13.

Healey
Tom Banjor and Tom Healey are assisting Manzini this season.

Manzini Welcomes 10 Lettermen and 24 Sophomores

(This is the first in a series of round-up articles on Valley grid teams. More will follow in the next three weeks prior to the opening games on September 13 and 14. Monessen will be covered in daily stories here.)

Providing the ol' "injury bug" leaves them alone the Bellmar Hurricanes may spring a few surprises in Class A grid circles this season.

"Injuries are the downfall of any team," says Bellmar mentor Bap Manzini, "But with our squad an injury or two would be particularly disastrous for we have some key players upon whom I have to build the team this season." "If one of them goes, the Hurricanes season goes too," he added.

The cagey Hurricane mentor would not mention the key players by name this early in the season for as he puts it, "every team on our schedule will be pointing for those boys if I name them now — after a game or two everyone'll know who they are."

Talking with the former St. Vincent College and pro grid star you get the impression that he looks for this year's squad to do all right if the breaks (of the game not bones) go the right way.

10 Lettermen Return

Manzini greeted 10 lettermen in all this when he called out the squad for the first week of drills at Camp Marion this week. Included among the "B" winners are seniors Reg Kostelac, Bill Schmidt, Ralph Greco and Bill Kubin, Kostelac is a fullback, Schmidt a tackle, Greco a halfback and Kubin an end.

Seniors returning who saw some action include ends Bill Lofink and Andy Stefanik, guard Ken Waugaman and fullback Ken Strenske.

Juniors who saw enough action last season to win a letter include guard Tom O'Toole, center Bill Mullen, end Percy Cranford, quarterback Larry Petras, halfback Larry Rankin, halfback Denny Swiantek.

Other juniors back for another try include guard Frank Burgess, tackle Bill Barker, back Bill Livingstone, halfback John Chicchini and guard Bill Hammerash. Other juniors reporting for the first time are Vance Edwards, Bill Mazzei, Chuck Dacko, Carry Grant, Fred Koslasky and Allen Davis.

In all eight seniors and 17 juniors have reported.

Sophomores Number 24

The largest number of candidates, however, comes from the sophomore class with 24 hopefuls up from Kenny Clark's Vernon Junior High squad and Harry Muckle's Marion eleven Juniors of last season.

Included among the sophomores or first year varsity candidates are: Bill Brown, Ted Shook, Walter Lautsch, Rich Caputo, John Sanino, Bill Beggs, Fred Vanucci, James Belsick, Milt Dupree, Denny Dayner, Jim Sicchi, Ron Coates, Louis Comadena, Howard Lippencott, John Kasuda, Baron Kibler, Dennis Delsangie, Albert Guiliano, Ed Bolger, Wayne Bruce, Lee Cornell, Carey Lehew, Charles DeHosse and Larry Thompson.

Manzini has veteran assistant Tom Banjor assisting him as well as new aide Tom Healey, who is also the new Bellmar cage mentor.

Commenting on the schedule Manzini says, "German has six linemen back plus a veteran backfielder, South Union is loaded with vets, Dunbar has last year's team back intact, and Elizabeth Forward's enrollment is so large they are going to AA, California and Rostraver are always tough for us due to the rivalry and Centerville and Perry are top B teams."

"It won't be easy," he added.

SMITH LEADS IN SAILING

CHICAGO (UP) — Defending champion Bob Smith of Chicago was in a commanding lead at the Penguin international sailing championships after winning both of Thursday's opening day races.

MVL Playoffs Resume Tonight At New Eagle

Tonight at New Eagle's Racetrack Field, the Charleroi Merchants will battle the men of Frank Furiga in the second game of the championship series for the Mon Valley League's 1957 championship. Game time is 5:30 o'clock.

Charleroi has a one game lead in the best-of-seven series, copping the first tilt when Fred Uhlman held the Furigamen practically helpless. The Merchants had advanced to the championship round by topping Perryopolis, four games to one, while New Eagle took Fayette City in three straight games of a best-of-five set.

Manager Alf Caruso of Charleroi has nominated Carl Witmyer, his young southpaw ace, to toe the rubber tonight while Furiga will probably send his son, Vic, who blanked Fayette City in the clincher of that series, against Witmyer.

New Eagle finished fourth in the regular season, Charleroi second.

Following tonight's game the two rivals next meet on Sunday at Fayette City in a 2:30 o'clock test. Charleroi will use the Fayette City field for home playoff games during the season as the Merchant's "home" at Charleroi Stadium is being readied for football season.

Fourth round scores: Youngstown 4, Dayton 3; Cincinnati 7, Fort Wayne 4.

Altoona defeated Philadelphia, 7-2, in a re-play of a second round game.

Basilio-Sugar Ray May Be On Again

NEW YORK (UP) —The on-again, off-again middleweight championship fight between Sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio may be staged as scheduled at Yankee Stadium Sept. 23.

Robinson called off his title defense against welterweight king Basilio Tuesday night because of a dispute with promoter Jim Norris over theater television.

However, Robinson now feels he might be able to settle his differences with Norris at a New York State Athletic Commission hearing next Monday.

PNA Tops Ravens, 6-4; Play Myfords Tonight

PNA advanced to the semi-finals in local City Softball League play last night with a 6-4 victory over the Ravens. The winners now advance to the semi-finals for the league title against the second-place Myfords tonight in the opener of the best-of-three set.

The winner of the series opening tonight meets the first-place Cro-Ams for the '57 championship.

Paul Petrusky led the PNA team last night as he pitched and batted his mates to victory. He blasted out a double and three triples in four trips to the plate. On the mound he kept nine hits well scattered and was never in serious trouble.

Shorty Skowronski with a triple and single and Joe Gladys with a homer helped the PNA cause considerably.

Don Ritzer's efforts to keep the Ravens in the game went for naught as he tossed ten-hit ball and contributed two hits to the cause, as did Day-Day Perozzi who sparkled defensively.

The series between the Myfords and PNA should prove to be a good series with both teams relying on their outstanding hurling. The Myfords will probably go with Tony Turcaso while PNA will come back with either Binks Adamczyk or Paul Petrusky.

Mexico, California Teams in LL Finale

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UP) — Monterrey, Mexico, and La Mesa, Calif., meet today in the championship game of the Little League World Series after both teams won their first round playoff games Thursday.

Greyhounds In 'Head-Knocking' Drill Sessions

"We're going to get down to heavy work," is the way Monessen High grid mentor Armand Niccolai put it in getting the 'Hounds prepared for some head-knocking or scrimmage sessions.

Already a few of the candidates have found the going too rough but the real "weeding out" will come after a few scrimmage sessions.

Earlier this week "Nick" and his aides, Harry McCurdy, Joe Gladys, Al Romasco and Andy Kuzemka have been sending the squad through blocking and tackling, drills, calisthenics, wind sprints, etc. In other words as Niccolai puts it "we've been working on the fundamentals as usual during the first few days."

Quite a few local fans have gathered at the field each day to watch the '57 edition of the 'Hounds go through their paces. Most of the fans have commented on the many new faces in the sophomore-loaded squad.

The opener with Windber is just three weeks from tomorrow night.

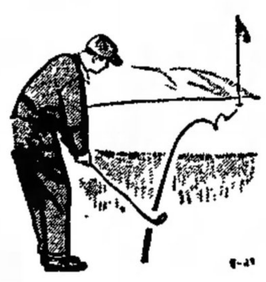
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Pitch Trouble

Sometimes you will be faced with a very delicate pitch. If you make the ball hit just barely on the green, with maximum underspin, you can make it stop very near the pin. But — if you pitch the ball just a little shorter than you mean to, you will be in a trap, or in more high grass.

The thing to do here is make sure, first of all, that you get the ball on the green. And don't try to cut it too close! If you get the ball on the green, you will have a chance to make the putt — even if you don't get the ball close to the pin. And, in any event, you will most likely get down from where you are in a maximum of three strokes. Cut the pitch too delicately, though, and you'll wind up taking four or more shots to get in.

This lesson applies to me as well as to you. I was guilty of the fault outlined above on the 7th hole of the recent National Open in Toledo. I wound up with a double bogey; as it turned out, a plain bogey here would have let me win the tournament.

Seven Knockdowns Tops for Heavies

SEATTLE (UP)—Pete Rademacher's seven knockdowns by Floyd Patterson Thursday night were the most suffered by any principal in a heavyweight title bout in 23 years.

They were the most since June 14, 1934, when Max Baier floored Primo Carnera 11 times before giant Primo was knocked out in the 11th round.

Jack Dempsey decked Luis Firpo nine times on Sept. 14, 1923 —seven times in the first round— before Firpo was counted out in the second round. Dempsey also floored big Jess Willard seven times in the first round on July 4, 1919, when Jack won the title. Willard quit during the rest period after the third round had ended.

Pirate Power Stops Redlegs

Friend, 15 Hits Win, 8-3

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, with an aggressive 15-hit attack, topped Cincinnati, 8-3, Thursday night, sending the Redlegs to their 10th consecutive defeat.

Bob Friend gave up nine hits in going the distance for his ninth victory against 16 defeats. The loser was Don Gross, whose record now stands at 4-8.

The present string of 10 Cincinnati losses is the longest losing streak in the National League this season.

The Pirates scored five runs in the fourth inning on six hits, an error and a sacrifice fly. The error by Gus Bell, was the first of two miscues he committed and allowed Bob Skinner to score.

The Pirates picked up a pair of tallies in the fifth inning off Art Fowler who had replaced Tom Acker. Gene Freese singled, advanced on Frank Robinson's error and Skinner's single and scored after Frank Thomas flied out to Robinson.

Skinner then stole second and scored on Bill Mazeroski's second double of the game.

The last Pirate tally came in the eighth when Hank Foiles doubled off Vince Amor and Gene Freese singled.

Cincinnati scored two runs in the fifth inning and one in the seventh.

Pittsburgh meets Cincinnati again tonight with Pirate Bob Purkey (10-10) ptching against Joe Nuxhall.

Donora Awaits PONY Series Opener Monday

Donora's crack PONY League team is one of eight entries prepping for the World Series opener at Washington Monday. The down-river community's entry will carry the valley colors into the series at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Many valley fans are planning on attending and rooting for the Donorans, including the members of the four local PONY teams who will travel by bus to the game.

The other Seven World Series entrants are:

Waltham, Mass.; Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Maywood, Ill.; Paducah, Ky.; Miami, Fla.; Lufkin, Tex. and LaMesa, Calif.

There are eight league regions throughout the United States, and each of the teams in the series won its regional championship.

The 1956 series champion, Joliet, Ill., did not win its regional title this year.

The series is a double elimination tournament, which means a team must lose two games before it is eliminated.

The PONY League was founded by Lew Hays, a former newspaperman, in 1950 when he set up a 16-team league in Washington, Pa.

Since then, the league has grown to include some 3,400 teams in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, Panama, Cuba, England, Germany, Saudi Arabia and the Netherlands West Indies.

Hays is league commissioner. The president is comedian Joe E. Brown, father of General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Brown and several former and current major league players will be present for the series.

Perry Predicts Steeler Victory

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers today ended practice sessions for an exhibition game with the Cleveland Browns in Akron, Ohio, Saturday.

Coach Walter Kiesling stressed both offense and defense alignments.

Coach Lowell Perry, scouted the Browns in their opener against Detroit, predicted a win for Pittsburgh in the Rubber Bowl tilt.

The Steelers will make the trip to Cleveland by bus, leaving after lunch.

Logar-Byars Bout On TV Tonight

DETROIT (UP) — A pair of rangy welterweights, Isaac Logart and Walter Byars, who have only the best of hopes for welter champ Carmen Basilio, will meet tonight in a 10-round nationally televised bout.

Logart and Byars don't have any special fondness for Basilio, but if Basilio could win the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson Sept. 23, then tonight's winner might get a chance at the welter title.

The two ranking 147 - pounders aren't expected to draw enough people to take the echo out of Olympia Stadium tonight. There's no local interest and with newspapers shut down by a strike, promoter Nick Londes has had a hard time letting people know there's a fight.

But Logart and Byars will be fighting for a television audience and a chance to meet Tony DeMarco, top-ranked welter, in any case.

Monongahela 9 Splits, Stays In AL Tourney

HARRISBURG (UP) — An undefeated Philadelphia team lead the field of four remaining today for the third day's play in the American Legion Junior Baseball Tourney.

The Quaker City nine defeated top-contending Monongahela 6-5 in 10 innings in the morning match Thursday, went on to take the afternoon match from Leesport with a ninth inning rally 7-6.

White Oak scored two victories Thursday to remain in the running, defeating Republic 8-3 and Pottstown 10-0.

Monongahela kept its chances alive by routing Ford City 18-3 in the afternoon game. A grand slam homer by George Peters led the 16-hit score chalked up by the winners.

After rolling over Manheim 11-5, Pottstown was eliminated by White Oak's victory in the afternoon game. The losers got only three hits off Jim Cunningham, who also slammed out a triple, a double and two singles to lead the White Oak attack.

Leesport, which played only one game Thursday, meets Monongahela in the first match today, scheduled for 5 p.m. (e.d.t.). Philadelphia plays White Oak.

Ted Snaps Slump, Leads Mantle Again

CHICAGO (UP)—Ted Williams snapped out of a two-game batting slump Thursday and now leads Mickey Mantle, .386 to .377, in their race for the American League batting title.

Williams, hitless in the last two games of the series, had two hits in four tries Thursday as the Red Sox pummelled the Indians, 11-3. The Yankees whipped the Athletics, 11-4, but Mantle had only one hit in four attempts. Mantle leads in homers, 32-31, and runs batted in, 86-73.

Burdette Reverses '56 Pattern To Help Braves' Runaway March

By FRED DOWN

Add Lew Burdette to the reasons the Milwaukee Braves are steadily driving those nails into the coffins of their National League rivals.

It was just about this time a year ago that the controversial right-hander went into a tailspin that contributed to the Braves' failure to win the flag. Lew finished the 1956 season with a 19-10 record but he won only three games after Aug. 22 as the Braves faltered in the stretch.

It appears that there'll be no late slump this year, however, for Burdette, who whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-1, Thursday night to keep the Braves' 6½-game lead intact. The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, the Pittsburgh Pirates dealt the Cincinnati Redlegs their 10th straight loss, 8-3, and the New York Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-2, in the other National League games

The New York Yankees increased their American League spread over the idle Chicago White Sox with an 11-4 victory over their "country - cousin" Kansas City Athletics while the Boston Red Sox drubbed the Cleveland Indians 11-3, and the Detroit Tigers downed the Baltimore Orioles, 4-0.

12th For Burdette

Burdette, who hadn't beaten the Dodgers at Ebbets Field since Aug. 31, 1955, did it Friday night behind an 11-hit attack that included homers by Hank Aaron and Red Schoendienst. It was Lew's fourth victory in his last five decisions and his 12th triumph of the year.

Aaron sent the Braves off winging against Sal Maglie in the first inning when he smashed a three-run homer, No. 35 of the year, and Schoendienst, who had three hits in all, bashed his 14th homer in the fifth. The Braves now have beaten the Dodgers 10 times in 17 meetings and six different pitchers have ictories over the defending champions.

Joe Cunningham's two doubles, a homer by Ken Boyer and a triple by Al Dark sparked an early Cardinal attack that routed 16-game winner Jack Sanford. Bilers have victories over the de- second win when he shut out the Phillies for the last four innings after they knocked out Larry Jackson. Stan Musial went 0-for-3 for the Cardinals and left the game in the fifth with an ailing left shoulder.

Bob Friend scattered nine hits as the Pirates extended the Redlegs' losing skein to the longest of the NL season Gene Freese and Frank Thomas had three hits each for the Pirates and Dick Groat had a triple.

Mays Hits 28th HOMER

Willie Mays boosted his average to .332 with his 28th homer and two doubles to lead a 10-hit Giant attack that handed strikeout whiz Dick Drott his 10th loss. Ray Crone won his sixth game for the Giants although he needed help from Jim Constable and Marv Grissom.

Harry Simpson's grand slam homer was the big blow as the Yankees whipped the Athletics for the 17th time in 20 meetings. Jerry Lumpe also had three hits to help Johnny Kucks win his eighth game. Wally Burnette suffered his ninth defeat compared to six victories.

Ted Williams snapped out of his two-day slump to go 2-for-4 and raise his average to .386 in the Red Sox' rout of the Indians. Mike Fornieles carried a shutout into the ninth to win his eighth game while Early Wynn suffered his 15th defeat for the Indians. Williams now leads Yankee star Mickey Mantle by nine points in the AL batting race.

Frank Lary pitched his second straight four - hitter and Harvey Kuenn, Ray Boone and Al Kaline had two hits each for the Tigers. Billy O'Dell was charged with his seventh loss in nine decisions for Baltimore

Shoulder Injury May Bench Stan

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A shoulder injury appeared almost certain today to snap Stan Musial's National League record string of consecutive games played tonight when the Cards face the Phillies.

The injury, which also may deprive the St Louis Cardinals of The Man's brilliant play in their efforts to hang on to the pace setting Milwaukee Braves, occurred in Thursday night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Musial was to undergo X-ray examination today to determine the full extent of the hurt, but C. A. (Bob) Bauman, Cardinal trainer, said it looked like Musial would b sidelined for at least several days.

Pete Floors Champ But Ends Up Getting KOed

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) —Floyd Patterson, 22-year-old tiger of the prize ring, relentlessly stalked the audacious amateur, Pete Rademacher, through five rounds here Thursday night, knocked him down seven times—and finally out in the sixth.

In the greatest massacre since Custer's last stand, Rademacher took an even more severe pasting than did Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson when the latter lost to the champ only three weeks ago.

But the upstart Rademacher, making his first start as a professional, had the satisfaction of decking the champ before the roof caved in.

One wild swinging right floored Patterson in the second round for a four-count.

"I never knew what hit me and never even knew I went down," said the champion later.

"All I remember is getting up and fighting back."

Pete 15 Pounds Heavier

Patterson, who weighed only 187 compared with 202 for Rademacher, had things his own way from there in.

Referee Tommy Loughran gave both the first rounds to the challenger—but when the fifth round came along and Patterson pole-axed the challenger four times, the referee scored the round 10-0 for the champ.

The end came after 2:57 of the sixth. Rademacher went down from a sharp right to the jaw. When he lumbered to his feet after a count of nine, Patterson stunned him with a swinging right and then a combination right and left sent him to the floor for keeps.

Outside of that second round, when the champ was on the floor, the 16,961 fans who paid $243,030 to watch the uneven battle, didn't have much chance to cheer for their home-state lad.

But they couldn't fault the former football player on his courage. Nobody had expected him to win; and most had thought that he would go out in a round or two. But he kept getting up and going for more.

"When a man with an axe starts chopping at you, sooner or later you are bound to go," was the way Rademacher summed it up after the fight.

Floyd Denies "Carrying" Pete

It appeared that after the third round, the champion could end it any time he wanted. But Patterson denied that.

"Rademacher is an Olympic champion. I was an Olympic champion and I know how Olympic champions fight.

"However, I was never worried. I knew I would win after the third round."

Patterson got a $250,000 guarantee for the fight and his manager, Cus D'Amato, said he would take every cent of it.

"We are going to take the $250,000 despite the fact that the promoter will lose money," D'Amato said. "But I want to say that Seattle is a great sports town. They should have a major league franchise here."

Neither Patterson nor Rademacher revealed their future plans. But there didn't appear to be much on the horizon in the way of opposition for the champion; and as for Rademacher he will have a rough time taking on any of the top 10 rated heavyweights.

Could Fight Him Again Tomorrow, Says Rademacher

By PETE RADEMACHER
As Told To United Press

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Speaking as my own manager, there is nothing like starting at the top and working down.

I feel in good condition right now and would fight Patterson again tomorrow if I had a chance. I prepared myself for 15 rounds and felt I was getting stronger and more relaxed as time went on.

The entire promotion from the beginning to the end has been a wonderful and exciting experience. I enjoy fighting. I love fighting, but no decision has been made yet on whether I will continue as a professional. I can say right now that I was real pleased to have this fight in the state of Washington.

I went into this fight knowing I would have my hands full but it was going to be do or die. I guess for a while it looked like die. I thought I could last longer. I felt I was getting stronger at the start of the sixth round.

But when somebody is in there chopping away with an axe, pretty soon it gets to you.

You spend two years planning to build a house. You hire the carpenter and other mechanics — then Floyd Patterson comes along and opens the door and has a house warming. We really had one tonight.

Fate of Western Plan to Build Strong Europe at Stake Sept. 15

By PETER WEBB

BONN (UP)— The most important election in Europe since World War II comes up next month in West Germany.

On its outcome hangs the fate of the Western world's plan to build a strong defensive military machine on the European continent capable of deterring a Communist ground attack.

Thirty-five million Germans will choose on Sept. 15 between keeping Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrat regime or turning the government over to the powerful opposition Socialist Party.

The Socialists have said that if they win they will pull West Germany out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, banish atomic weapons on their soil, halt conscription and scrap plans for a 500,000-man army and strong air force.

Then they will bargain with the Soviet Union for the reunification of East and West Germany.

Warns Of Downfall

The 82-year-old Adenauer, fighting the most critical battle of his career, has warned that Socialist victory would mean "the downfall of Germany." He has said that keeping its alliance with the West is his nation's only means of halting Communism and eventually restoring a whole Germany.

The latest indications are that Adenauer will win a third successive four year term, but it may be by a narrow margin.

Public opinion polls report that support for the Christian Democrats has risen from 39 to 46 per cent of the electorate since November. Socialist strength has dropped from 44 to 35 per cent in the same period.

Political experts estimate that about 80 per cent of the voters already have made up their minds. The campaigns of all parties are now being directed at the 20 per cent "floating vote" which will be decisive.

There will be at least 494 Bundestag seats at stake, half of them by direct election in the constituencies and the remainder by proportional representation. One of the smaller parties, the Democrats, may emerge holding the balance of power and forcing West Germany into another coalition government.

Adenauer's greatest asset is the fact that West Germany is enjoying booming economic prosperity which has even permitted a national tax cut. The low point of his fortunes came last October-November when the Hungarian revolt raised fears of another war.

A new element in the campaign was the visit of Soviet Communist Chief Nikita Khrushchev earlier this month to East Germany. Khrushchev blasted Adenauer as a new Hitler and warned that his policies were taking Germany along the road to war.

Observers here believe that Khrushchev's attack will boomerang, winning Adenauer more votes among the violently anti-Russian West Germans. They have also done harm to the Socialist cause by emphasizing Soviet intractability over reunification.

Khrushchev made it clear the Soviets are not prepared to negotiate a reunification which would depose the East German Communist regime. He almost contemptuously dismissed the proposal—supported by Socialists and Christian Democrats alike — for free, nation-wide elections.

The real worry for the Christian Democrats is Adenauer's health. For a man in his 80s Adenauer is remarkably fit and has been delivering hour-long speeches on a campaign tour without visible signs of fatigue. But there is always the danger at his age that a comparatively minor ailment might be serious.

One Killed in Plant Blast

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (UP)—A coal-dust explosion ripped through a spice-milling factory Thursday killing one man and injuring 15 other persons.

The dead man was 53-year-old John Solokowski, of Jersey City, who was milling charcoal on the third floor of the Walter C. Gregory Corp., building when the blast occurred.

Acting Fire Chief Jules Resslard said an "accumulation of dust" around the milling apparatus touched off the blast, which ignited a three-alarm fire that raged for an hour before it was controlled.

Indications are that prehistoric Indians lived in Idaho about four thousand years ago. Prehistoric remains have been found in a cave near Marsing, in the southwestern section of the state.

Congress' Expenses Up; Get Increases

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House voted itself some extra expense money Thursday. The chamber approved extra postage and rental allowances and more flexible use of telephone and telegraph expenses. The House agreed to allow each of the 435 members an extra $100 a year for special delivery stamps, making a total of $300 a year, because of the recent special delivery rate increase. It also voted to allow every member $100 to maintain an office in his home district.

An inch of rainfall on an acre weighs about 100 tons.

Just Another Step Forward

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House believes a rose by another name could smell a little sweeter after all.

It solemnly voted Thursday to dub its chief janitor with the classier title of chief custodian.

The assistant janitor got a new title, too. He's now the assistant custodian.

No extra money was mentioned.

But the House move was clearly the latest crest in a wave of progress that is elevating the tone of American occupations.

Long ago undertakers took to softening the possibly unhappy associations their calling may have for some by calling themselves morticians.

Then barbers decided to give a bit more dignity to their activities by calling themselves tonsorial artists and later chirotonsors.

Hairdressers became beauticians. Floor walkers became aisle managers. Foot doctors became podiatrists. Rat catchers became exterminating engineers.

But possibly the ultimate was achieved by the ladies of the theater who disrobe in public: Strippers became ecdysiasts.

House Chief Custodian John E. Bennett was not immediately available for comment on his new title. But Assistant Custodian T. Howard Dolan said "This is the first time I've heard of it."

"It's okay with me, though," he said. "I don't care what they call it.

"Of course, if there was some money in it, why then I'd be interested."

Sweeping Indictment

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP) — Lawrence Dell, 21, made like a street cleaner after he pleaded guilty to smashing a bottle on the street, a violation of the city's anti-litter ordinance. The judge sentenced Dell to rake a quarter of the city park.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Clyde E Bradley, who passed away ten years ago today, August 23, 1947.
Dearest father, in silence you suffered,
And with patient you bore,
'Til God called you to Him
To suffer no more.
We took our sorrows all to you,
You'd smooth our troubled brow,
You always chased the cloud away,
We could not forget you now.
Gone into the light that shineth so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrow and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone, dear father, gone to rest
What is a home without our father?
What are all the joys we meet?
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet!
Dearest father, how we miss you,
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs Lillian Bradley, Sons and Daughter

Census Bureau May Ask What Religion During Survey in 1960

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Would you be offended if a census-taker asked "What is your religion?"

The Census Bureau is debating whether to include that question on the forms that will be used by its 200,000 enumerators when they call at every home in America in 1960.

Dr. Conrad Taeuber, assistant director of the bureau, said "vigorous discussions" are still underway within the bureau staff, and "no final decision has been reached."

He said some census officials feel strongly that the bureau should collect factual data on the religious affiliations of Americans, while others are convinced that "it would be a bad mistake."

One problem that has particularly concerned census officials, he said, is how the average American is likely to react to a question about his religion. No such question has ever been asked in a nationwide census.

Orders Trial Runs

To sound out public sentiment, the Census Bureau ordered two "trial runs" of the religion question. One was conducted last fall in four Wisconsin counties. The other test was held this spring, and involved a random sample of about 35,000 Americans in all parts of the country.

In both tests, Taeuber said, the census-takers found "very few" people who protested the question or seemed reluctant to answer it.

The main argument for including the question in the 1960 census is that it would provide, for the first time, reliable official figures on the size and distribution of various religious groups. Present statistics on church membership are notoriously inadequate. In many cases, they are little more than estimates by denominational officials.

It is significant that among those urging the Census Bureau to include the religion question are two men who probably know more about church statistics than anyone else in America. They are Dr. Benson Y. Landis, editor of the Protestant -- sponsored Yearbook of American Churches, and Thomas B. Kenedy, editor of the Official Catholic Directory.

Accurate Figures Valuable

Accurate census figures on America's religious population would be of obvious benefit to religious bodies in determining their areas of strength and weakness, and in planning the location of new churches.

But Taeuber said many groups besides churches have asked the Census Bureau to collect religious statistics. Among them, he said, are governmental planning agencies responsible for location of schools and hospitals; social welfare groups; housing agencies; and business firms whose markets are affected by religious holidays or dietary customs.

Opposition to the "what is your religion?" question has been registered by the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Jewish Congress.

The Civil Liberties Union, which previously had endorsed the question, did an about-face early this month. It asserted in a letter to Census Bureau Director Robert W. Burgess that it would violate the First Amendment to the Constitution "to ask anyone questions about religion or membership in a religious body."

Cites Amendment

The First Amendment says that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The American Jewish Congress pointed out in its protest that refusal to answer official census questions is a federal crime. It said the Supreme Court has "expressly and repeatedly held that under the First Amendment, the government has no power to compel any person to profess a belief or disbelief in any religion."

Jayne's Boyfriend Gets Chance to Flex Muscles

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Mickey Hargitay, Jayne Mansfield's muscular boyfriend, appears with the blonde glamour girl for the first time in her new picture.

"I play Bobo, a TV-type Tarzan," Hargitay says proudly. "It gives me a good chance to show off my muscles.

"Our director, Frank Tashlin, said I had a good build so he put me in a pair of leopard skin trunks. In one scene I jump out a window—and they didn't use a stunt man, either."

Next to marrying Jayne, Mickey's ambition in life is to become an actor.

"I'd like to marry Jayne today," he said sadly. "But her divorce isn't final 'til Oct. 21. I hope we can get married right after that."

Hargitay, who won the "Mr. Universe" title in London in 1955, is a friendly, hulking man who stands 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds. He speaks with a slight Hungarian accent and is happy for an opportunity to talk about himself—most interviewers ask questions about his buxom girl friend.

"I've had an interesting career," he said. "I left Budapest nine years ago—right after the Communists took over. I didn't like the way things were going back there.

"When I landed in New York I couldn't speak English very well and I took a job in a fruit market for two dollars a day and all the fruit I could eat. It was interesting.

"Six months later I joined an adagio dance team, and then I went into the building business."

Mickey's handsome face lighted up like a full moon when he recalled his beefcake triumph in London. Following that success he joined Mae West's show for a year.

"Then I came to Hollywood looking for adventure and to see about a movie career," he grinned. "That was when the nicest thing in the world happened. I met Jayne.

"Just one look and we fell in love. We've been going together about 16 months now."

Thanks to Jayne, Hargitay landed his role in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" at 20th Century-Fox. This led to another featured part in "Slaughter On Tenth Avenue" at Universal International. A third picture is looming at Columbia.

The broad-shouldered strongman modestly denies that he lifts weights to stay in shape. He keeps his muscles toned on the golf course and in swimming pools.

"I come by my physique naturally," he said, somewhat defensively. "There isn't any law that a guy with muscles can't be an actor, too. If they want me to act with my shirt off that's fine with me.

"And that's not all," he concluded triumphantly. "Jayne likes my physique too!"

Shadow Puppets On 'Look Up And Live' Story

Japanese shadow puppets — among the most unusual of the performing arts and never before seen on television — will be used to relate the story of St. Francis of Assisi when "Look Up and Live" presents "The Story of St. Francis," by Rose Leiman Schiller on Sunday, Aug. 25, from 10:30 to 11 a. m. over WFBG-TV, Altoona (Channel 10) and the CBS-TV network.

The program is "Look Up and Live's" fourth and final presentation in its special series dramatizing the lives of outstanding saints and will be of particular interest to WFBG-TV viewers because of St. Francis college, Loretto, bearing the name of St. Francis of Assisi and also by reason that members of this religious order maintain the college.

Operating the delicate shadow puppets will be Phyllis Stevens, one of the few people outside Indonesia who has mastered the difficult and almost unknown craft. Miss Stevens has created all the special puppet figures and constructed the sets and the scenery for the production.

The highest mountain in Africa is Mount Kilimanjaro.

Your Health—

Be Alert to Symptons Of Tumor in Children

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Cancer ranks second only to accidents as the chief killer of children. Yet many parents seldom think of cancer as a menace to their youngsters. Chickenpox, measles and the like are of more concern.

To a certain extent, that's as it should be. I don't want you to develop a phobia about cancer. As Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society, once put it, "Cancer should be in your mind, not on your mind."

Yet you must know what to look for in order to be on the safe side.

Many types of brain tumors are encountered in children as often as in adults and one specific type is found only in children. While tumors of the brain may produce a variety of symptoms, some of the most common are these:

1. Interference with muscular coordination. The hands and arms might be affected, causing a youngster to drop things frequently. Perhaps he may stagger, be unable to walk straight and even fall occasionally.

2. Vision troubles. His field of vision may be narrowed so much that he can see only the object upon which his eyes are focused. Perhaps his vision will be blurred or maybe he will complain of seeing double.

3. Headache. In some cases, headache is the only indication of a brain tumor. If the tumor is causing the trouble, the headache may be very slight at the outset of the difficulty, but probably will develop in intensity until it is severe and long-lasting.

4. Illness. Even without being nauseous, a patient might vomit violently. Generally, this action is abrupt and without any warning.

5. Drowsiness and loss of alertness. Frequent spells of drowsiness and a sort of mental dullness might strike the child. Seizures varying in intensity from being barely noticeable to loss of consciousness may develop. Sometimes convulsions might result.

Wilson Winding Up Defense Career Just The Way He Began It

By CHARLES CORDDRY

WASHINGTON (UP)—Charles E. Wilson is winding up his colorful career as defense secretary the way he began it—at the center of a storm over military cuts.

With only about six weeks to go, he is giving the Pentagon a final shakedown, squeezing out two billion dollars and thousands of men to fit the nation's armed forces into a tighter budget.

He is making the tough policy decisions that otherwise would confront his successor, soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy. In the process he is determining the general shape of American defenses for at least two more years.

The economy ax has to swing and, characteristically, Wilson is personally doing the job.

The prospective defense outline: Annual expenditure of 38 billion dollars; reduction of forces from the present 2,800,000 men to 2,500,000 by 1959 or 1960; continued emphasis on air-atomic strategy and increased production of guided missiles.

Keep Adequate Strength

There is a distinction between the economy program Wilson is waging now and the one he carried out in 1953. He frankly concedes today that he is putting budgetary considerations first but says the nation will retain adequate military strength to prevent or win any kind of war. In 1953, he denied that the dollar sign was controlling and insisted he was providing more defense, more efficiently, for the money spent. Then the administration had a slogan for it: "More bang for a buck."

A man of 67 who would "rather look forward than backward," the often impish Detroit industrialist confided to newsmen the other day. He said that "life hasn't been dull" in his four and one-half years of runing the world's most powerful armed forces.

That makes it unanimous, for his presence has certainly made life in the capital livelier. And it apparently will continue that way to the end of his regime, as critics accuse him of conducting one-man disarmament campaign and defenders insist he is actually strengthening America's hand in the disarmament talks.

Speaks Simple Truths

Wilson's own uninhibited remarks have caused most of his trouble in Washington. But there are many who agree with his wife, Jessie Ann, that he mainly spoke "simple truths in a place where politics is more generally the native tongue."

Quiet obscurity in retirement is not his likely fate. When he leaves Washington, Wilson will ostensibly lead a triple life of Michigan cattle-breeder, Louisiana plantation owner and Florida farmer.

He says he will leave with "mixed emotions" about a job that has been "challenging without question." He has held the defense post three times as long as any of his four predecessors and almost as long as all of them combined.

He probably made the greatest material sacrifice of any American who ever came to high government service. Under Senate pressure, he parted with $2,700,000 in stock in General Motors Corp., of which he had been president. The gain in market value of that stock since early 1953, the capital gain tax he paid on the sale, the dividends it would have paid, and the $600,000 annual G.M. salary he lost — all these add up to an apparent sacrifice of something like four million dollars to serve in the $25,000-a-year cabinet post. (What he has earned from reinvestment of his funds in securities involving no "conflict of interest" is not publicly known.).

Wilson took over the Pentagon at a time of revolutionary ferment in the methods and machines of war.

Charles E. Wilson

With no strategic background at all, he presided over a permanent altering of American military strategy. It was called the "new look" and placed main reliance for prevention of winning of war on air-atomic force with ground and surface naval forces reduced.

Wilson's business was to have the nation prepared for war if it came but his voice in high administration councils was usually on the side of peace. He inveighed against "rattling the A-bombs" and never used such expressions as "massive retaliation." He said people all over the world "hope and pray their leaders are smart enough to avoid war."

Wanted Wed In Worse Way

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)— A frustrated young swain was held today on charges he tried to force his girl friend to marry him at gunpoint, then blazed away at her uncle with a shotgun.

Police arrested James F. Shields, 22, at his Walnut Hill home early Thursday and charged him with breaking and entering, destroying property and attempted murder.

Sheriff Emmett Shelby said Shields barged into the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McLane of Myrtle Grove and held them at bay with the gun while he pleaded with Emily McLane to marry him. The sheriff said that when McLane bolted to call for help, Shields fired at him but missed.

Headless Body Jammed in Drum

CHICAGO (UP)—The dissected, headless body of a woman was found jammed in a steel drum floating in Lake Michigan yacht basin Thursday and authorities today said it appeared to be the work of a "professional butcher."

Deputy Coroner Norman Gibbons said the woman, believed to be between 35 and 40 years old, had been dead at least three days.

He said identification would be difficult because the head, the right arm and both hands had been neatly severed.

The drum, with its grisly cargo, was sighted floating in Montrose Harbor Thursday morning and was reported as a hazard to boatmen.
